ATLANTA, GEORGIA, WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 22, 1888.

FIGHT OF THE CITIES For the Honor of Entertaining the Convention.

CHICAGO MEN CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

Sanguine-Bills Introduced by Geor-gia Congressmen-Other News.

WASHINGTON, February 21.-[Special.]-There is little, if any change in the convention controversy. San Francisco is still considered ontroversy. San Francisco is sufficient in the lead, though it has not as yet a sufficient number of votes pledged to make it a certainty. The friends of Chicago are claiming more tonight than at any previous time. The outlook for the windy city can be regarded with a believe degree of hone than on vesterday. The higher degree of hope than on yesterday. The St. Louis faction, if they cannot secure the prize for themselves, will, when the time comes, go to San Francisco, rather than Chicago. The friends of the latter city are in the same condition. The claim is made that those wedded to the golden shore scheme will stand steadfast to their guns and hope to secure the required number of votes. Through the bitter fight to be waged between St. Louis and Chiand to be waged between St. Louis and Chicago, Cincinnati is, to all appearances, out of the race. New York I as not cut the prominent figure it was supposed, though the Tammany braves, like the plumed knight, are claiming everything, and Congressman Scott, of Pennsylvania, who is the representative of the president, said tonight that in his opinion the convention would go to Chicago. Senator Gorman, of Maryland, is equally sanguine that the conclave will be held out on the Pa-that he knew positively the convention would be held in Chicago on the 20th of May. He says President Cleveland expressed his desires in accordance with this, and that the committee would undoubtedly gratify them.

The house judiciary committee today reported favorably on Major Barnes's biil transferring certain counties from the southern to the northern judicial district of Georgia, and dividing the northern district into eastern and western divisions. In other words, three counties are to be taken from the northern district and about ten from the southern which will compose an eastern division, with court to be held at Augusta. Judge Newman, of the Atlanta district, will preside, and the division will not create any new offices.

They also reported favorably the bill repealing that section of the Revised Statutes which render ineligible to the army any persons who were in the confederate service.

THE BLAIR BILL. The Blair educational bill has now been in the hands of the committee on education for over a week and as yet they have not considered it. It is in the hands of a sub-committee composed of Messrs. Crain, Cobb, Pennington, Lane, O'Donnell, Russell and White, the majority of whom are opposed to it, and will probably not report it at all. However, the friends of the bill are very anxious for a re-port, even though it be an adverse one, in order that the house vote may be taken, and are en-deavoring to get the committee to act. Mr. Candler is known to be an opponent of the bill. There is no doubt, however, but that the sub-committee's report will be adopted.

GEORGIA IN CONGRESS.
The following bills were introduced by the Georgia delegation today: By Mr. Carlton, that the engineer be instructed to make a survey of the Savannah river between Augusta and Andersonville, and report as to the practicability of navigation; also, to appropriate $10,000 to complete the improvement of the Oconee river between Scull shoals and the Senator Brown yesterday presented a petition to the senate from the Savannah Volunteer Guards, asking that the recommendation of the adjutant general of the army, that army officers be detailed during the winter months to instruct militia be adopted.

Today he introduced the petition of Logan Bleckley, chief justice of the supreme court of Georgia; Judge Clarke, Judge Van Epps, the bankers of Atlanta, Governor Bullock and other manufacturers, and Mr. Kiser and other leading merchants, asking consideration by the senate of the extradition treaty between this government and Great Britain for the return of criminals who have fled to Canada, in order that they might not be punished by

The treasury officials have furnished the Georgia delegation with a list of all officers and employes who are accredited to the state. They number forty-three in all. The Savannah district and the Atlanta district have each eleven appointees. Ten of the eleven appointees from the Atlanta district are from Fulton county. Mr. E. P. Speer, of Spalding, is the exception, but he holds the highest position in the matter of rank and pay of any Georgian in the treasury department, and I may add, deserves it. Out of these forty-three employes quite a number are republicans. The majority from the first district are republicans, but the fifth presents only one or two as her quota. Among the colored employes are two noted names, DeLamata, of Fulton, and Deveaux, construction in Georgia.

Judge Stewart has been earnestly working on Atlanta's public building appropriation since Monday, and has succeeded in getting the promise of the public building committee that it would be that it would be reported in the next few days.

REMOVING THE INJUNCTION. The Senate Gives the Fisheries Treaty to

United States government to become a party to the international geodetic association, and relative to the invitation of the Belgian government to participate in the international exposition of science and industry at Brussels in May next, were presented and referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Sherman, from the committee on finance, reported back adversely the bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to overrule and reverse the decisions of all inferior officers of the treasury department in relation to matters of account. Indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Hoar, from the committee on privileges and elections, reported a resolution authorizing that committee and any sub-committee.

thereof to continue the investigation (ordered last session) into events alleged to have taken place in the state of Texas, and set forth in the petition of Stephen Hackworth and oth-ers. Referred to the committee on contingent respenses. The remainder of the day's session was spent in the consideration of the bill to incorporate the Washington cable electric railway of the District of Columbia. The bill was laid astide informally, and the senate, after voting down a motion to adjourn over till Monday, proceeded to executive business, and at 5:35 adjourned.

ceeded to executive business, and at 5:35 adjourned.

Shortly after going into executive session, injunction of secrecy upon the fisheries treaty was removed and the document was given to the public. The senate afterwards debated for more than an hour the policy of having the treaty considered with open doors. So radical a departure from time-honored precedents awakes bitter opposition, but there have been a number of influential converts to the open session movement since the late action on the British extradition treaty and senators who have never before favored the movement now openly declare that they can no longer endure the present conditions, and predict that secret sessions, except where an affirmative reason exists for secrecy, will not last three months longer.

The senate adjourned without action today, but enough was said to show that a majority of the senators are in favor of discussing this treaty at least with open doors.

The Direct Tax Refunding Bill Reported.

Public Buildings, Etc.*

WASHINGTON, February 21.—In the house, Mr. Wilkins, of Ohio, from the committee on banking and currency, reported a resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for information as to the number of steam power presses used in plate printing in the bureau of engraving and printing; whether they are owned by the government; if not, from whom they are leased and the amount of royalty paid, and the reason why the government is not owner of the presses; the number of hand plate presses used, and whether the work performed by steam presses is equal in quantity, quality and workmanship to that done by hand presses. Adopted.

The direct tax refunding bill was reported from the judiciary committee. Referred to committee of the whole.

Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, from the committee on ways and means, reported a bill authorizing the consolidation of certain customs collection districts and providing for the compensation of certain collectors and surveyors of customs. Placed on the house calendar.

Mr. J. D. Taylor, of Ohio, introduced a bill. Public Bulldings, Etc.

Mr. J. D. Taylor, of Ohio, introduced a bill to change the common law of marriage to the customs of modern civilization by the emancipation of married women in the District of Columbia and territories. Referred.

The house then went into committee of the whole for the consideration of public building measures. Bills were passed providing for buildings at Charleston, West Virginia; Allentown and Lancaster, Pa.

Pending the consideration of the bill for a building at Lowell, Mass., the committee rose.

The house took no final action on the bills agreed to in the committee, but at 5 o'clock adjourned until Thursday.

JOHN R. LYNCH TALKS. He Seems Willing to Let Blaine Drop Out of Sight. Jackson, Miss., February 21.—[Special.]—Your correspondent today asked Hon. John R. Lynch, chairman of the state republican committee, member of the national republican committee and tempoary chairman of the last republican national convention, what he thought of Mr. Blaine's letter. He at at first declined an expression of his views, saying that he was an expression of his views, saying that he was afraid of newspaper men, and that the inquiry came rather late any way, but being pressed for his views as the leading colored man in the country, which appellation he modestly denied, and assured that what he said would go exactly as he said it, Mr. Lynch said:

"I think Mr. Blaine's letter of withdrawal as "I think Mr. Blaine's letter of withdrawal as a presidential candidate is in perfect good faith. His name, in my opinion, will not be presented to the convention. Mr. Blaine is By Mr. Norwood, extending for two years aware of the fact that he is the strongest man within the republican party; that he has more friends and admirers inside of the ranks of the party than any other man, but he is also aware of the fact that there are a number of other men in the party, any one of whom as a presidential candidate will arouse less bitterness and personal antagonisms, and upon whom the whole party organization ould be more likely to unite and harmonize. Looking at the situation from this standpoint, he has wisely concluded to surrender his own aspirations upon the altar of his party's good, and withdraw from the field. This action on the part of Mr. Blaine strengthens him in public estimation and in the esteem of his party, hence no anti-Blaine man can or should ninated. He will contribute materially to the success of the party next fall, and will continue to be a conspicuous figure in American politics. In the event of republican success next fall, which is more than probable, he will wield a potential influence in shaping the policy of the administration."

Prompt Action in Providing for the Cyclone Sufferers.

Mr. Vernon, Ill., February 21.—Adjutant-General Vance and Dr. Rauch arrived here at 11 o'clock last night, and immediately met the citizens' committee and arranged to have forwarded immediately a number of shelter tents for the use of the homeless until permanent quarters can be furnished for them. For the convenience of many without homes, the airline and the Louisville and Nashville railroads have put specials on the railroads to carry such as choose to go to friends in neighboring towns during the night and return during the day. A message was received from Governor Oglesby asking the advisability of issuing a proclamation for aid. He said if no answer was received soon he would call upon the people of the country for contributions of clothing, groceries and money.

cerves soon he would call upon the people of the country for contributions of clothing, groceries and money.

As there is plenty of clothing and groceries on hand and the dealers show a willingness to come generously to the front, members of the committee are more desirous for cash contributions than other aid. There are many persons who believe that all the people have not been taken from the ruins, and many point to Crew's block as a funeral pile from which the remains of three or four unknown may yet be taken. The upper stories of this building were used as a boarding house, and it was much frequented by railroad men who stopped but for a day. A great effort was made in this building to release old man Murray, but he was pinned by the head and hips in a manner that he could not be moved. His cries were piteous as the flames crept upon him and literally roasted him to death. His charred remains were taken from the cellar of the bank at ten o'clock yesterday morning.

The following supplementary agreement was signed by the British representatives:

The treaty having been signed by the British officers, they desire to state that they have been considering the position which will be created by the immediate commencement of the fishing season before the treaty can possibly be ratified by the senate of the United States, by the parliament of Canada, and the legislature of Nowfoundland. In the absence of such ratification the old conditions, which have given rise to so much friction and irritation, might be revived and might interfere with an unprejudiced consideration of the treaty by the legislative bodies concerned.

Under these circumstances, and with the further object of affording evidence of their anxious desire to promote good feeling and remove all possible subjects of controversy, the British plenipotentiaries are ready to make the following temporary arrangement, for a period not exceeding two years, in order to afford a "modus vivendi" pending the ratification of the treaty:

1. For a period not exceeding two years from the present date, the privilege of entering the bays and harbers of the Attantic coast of Canada and New Foundland shall be granted to United States fishing vessels by annual licenses at a fee of one doilar and a half per ton for the following purposes: The purchase of bait, ice, seless, lines and all other supplies and outfits, the trans shipment of the catch and the shipping of crews.

2. If, during the continuance of this arrangement, the United States should remove the duties on fish, fish oil, whale and seal oil and their coverings, packages, etc., said licenses shall be issued free of charge.

2. United States fishing vessels entering the bays and harbors of the Atlantic coasts of Canada, or of SUPPLEMENTARY.

charge.

2. United States fishing vessels entering the bays and harbors of the Atlantic coasts of Canada, or of Newfoundland, for any of the four purposes mentioned in article I of the convention of October 20, 1818, and not remaining therein more than twenty-four hours, should not be required to enter or clear at the custom house, providing that they do not communicate with the shore.

4. Forfeiture to be exacted only for offenses of fishing or preparing to fish in colonial waters.

5. This arrangement to take effect as soon as the necessary measures can be completed by the colonial authorities.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER.

rite President Cleveland, in his letter transmitting the trenty to congress, says:

The treaty meets my approval, because 1 believe that it supplies a satisfactory, practical and final adjustment upon a basis honorable and just to both parties, of the difficult and vexed question to which it folates.

A review of the history of this question will show that all former attempts to a rive at a common interpretation, satisfactory to both parties, of the first article of the treaty of October 20, 1818, have been unsuccessful, and with the lapse of time difficulty and obscurity have only increased.

Segotiations in 1854 and again in 1871 ended in both cases in temporary reciprocal arrangements of tariffs of Canada and New Foundland and of the payment of money awarded by the United States, under which the real questions in difference renated unsettled in abcyance, and ready to present themselves anew just say soon as conventional arrangements were abrogated.

The situation, therefore, remained unsettled by the results of the treaty of 1871, and the grave condition of affairs, presenting almost identically the some features and causes of complaint by the United States against Canadian action and British default in its correction, confronted us in May, 1886, and has continued until the present time.

The articles permitting our fishermen to obtain provisions and the ordinary supplies of trading vessels on their homeward voyages, and under which they are accorded the further and even more important privilege on all occasions, of purchasing such casual or needful provisions and supplies as are ordinarily granted to vessels are of great importance and value. The licenses which are to be granted without charge and on application, in order to enable our fishermen to enjoy these privileges are reasonable and proper checks. In the hands of the to enable our fishermen to enjoy these privileges are reasonable and proper checks in the hands of the local authorities to identify the recipients and provent abuse, and cen form no impediment to those who intend to use them fairly.

The hospitality secured for our vessels in all'cases of actual distress, with the liberty to unlead and seal and tranship their cargoes, is full and liberal. These provisions will secure the substantial enjoyment of treaty rights for our fishermen undes the treaty of 1818, for which contentions have been steadily made in the correspondence of the department of state and our minister at London, and by the American negotiaters of the present treaty.

The right of our fishermen under the treaty of 1818 did not extend to the precisions, which proceed the conclusion of that treaty.

The treaty may submitted contains no provision affecting tariff duties, and the independency of the position assumed upon the part of the United States, that no alteration in our tariff or other domestic legislation could be made as the price or consideration of obtaining the rights of our citizens secured by the treaty, if was considered more expedient to allow any change in the revenue laws of the United States to be made by the ordinary exercise of legislation could be made as the price or consideration of obtaining the rights of our citizens secured by the treaty, if was considered more expedient to allow any change in the revenue laws of the United States to be made by the ordinary exercise of legislation with the properties of the treaty is wholly left to the action of congress; and in connection therewith Canadian and Newfoundland right to regular's easies of balt and other fishing supplies within their own jurisdiction is recognized, and the right of our fishermen to freely purchase these things is made contingent, by this treaty, upon the action of congress in modification of our tariff laws.

AN OLD MAN PROTECTS HIS DAUGHTER

Row Over a Piece of Land-All Hands RALEIGH, N. C., February 21.-[Special.] -

In Jackson township, Wilson county, last night, Noel Eatman went to the house of his-cousin, Noah Eatman, and while endeavoring sale of some land, which he was endeavoring to buy from him, became involved in a quarrel with her. Mrs. Eat-man quarreled so loudly that she was heard by her father, John Battoms, who lives a half a mile away. Battoms armed himself, ran over to Noah Eatman's, sprang into the door of the house, and demanded the cause of the row. Seeing Noel Eatman, who had a warrant from the sheriff of Nash for his arrest, he fired at him, breaking his thighbone. The shot penetrated the other leg, when the firing became promiscuous, ten or twelve shots being exchanged. Eatman fell, and drawing a revolver emptied it at Battoms, who was struck by two bullets. Noah Eat-man, his wife and children and several other persons were in the room at the time. One of the children, seven year old, was shot through the head and fatally wounded. Battoms is sixty-five years old, and has been dodging the sheriff off Nash county for three years, and is a desperate man. Both he and Eatman have their partisans. There is considerable feeling and more trouble is expected.

Four weeks ago he was to have been married, and in anticipation of the important event furnished his room with an elegant set of furniture, a fine carpet, an organ and sewing machine. Just before the wedding day came round the young lady in the case went back on DeBruyn, and he has been doing no good ever since. Last Saturday his hands went to his office for their regular weekly wages, but their employer did not show up. Yesterday the city was much excited over the report that the missing man had been murdered. He was seen with two strangers, riding over the city Saturday forenoon, and that was the last trace that could be obtained as to his whereabouts. Today the whole secret leaked out. An officer was detailed to work up the case, and found that he was in debt for everything he had purchased for his room, besides owing bills all over the city, including $200 to one of the planing mills, several sums of $50 and under, which he had berrowed from his friends he. planing mills, several sums of $50 and under which he had borrowed from his friends, be which he had borrowed from his friends, besides a large amount in wages to his employes. THE BRUTALITY OF A MOTHER. She Almost Murders Her Child to Protec

Mashville, Tenn., February 21.—[Special.]
A peculiar brutal doed occurred in a Crawford street den today. A negro woman inhumanly beat her six-year-old boy to death. Her story is that she punished the boy for stealing coal, of which she had vainly tried to break him, and that she did not intend seriously to injure him. The boy's story is entirely different, however, and has much more the air of truth. He says that his mother sent him to a coal He says that his mother sent him to a coal

He says that his mother sent him to a coal yard kept by a negro man, ordering him to bring back a bucket of coal, but gave him no money. The man caught him taking the coal, and followed him home; when his mother heard it she pretended to have given the money to buy it, and picking him up, slammed him against the wall, breaking one arm and crushing in his side. Then she took a leather strap and beat him with the heavy end until his alarms brought the neighbors who summoned the police and had her arrested. The child was put to bed and medical attention given, but is dying. He spoke with the greatest difficulty, and nearly altogether by signs and nods of the head. His mother, when stopped from her inhuman work, went in the house and got beastly drunk, and in that condition was taken to jail. drunk, and in that condition was taken to ja drunk, and in that condition was taken to lair. She bears a hard reputation, and is believed to have long lived by theft. The child is a frail little fellow, who has many times before been subjected to cruel treatment because he could not steal without being detected.

AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

The Interest Revived in a Tragic Murder Case. NASHVILLE, Tenn., February 21.-[Special.]

Considerable excitement was occasioned here today when it was discovered that N. B. Lester, in jail here under death sentence for killing J. today when it was discovered that N. B. Lester, in jail here under death sentence for killing J. T. Lane, in Lebanon, a year ago, and whose case is now before the supreme court, had made an attempt to commit suicide by the use of chloroform. Lester had been very free in boasting to other prisoners that he would never be hanged, so that Jailer Chickering suspected that he would make an attempt to commit suicide, and had him watched. Today, then, there was a strong odor of chloroform, and investigation showed that it came from Lester's cell. The attempt was, therefore, abortive. Lester has had no visitors except his brother, who visited him Sunday, and it is supposed they gave him the chloroform. Lester walked coolly up to Lane early one morning, when Lane had just got up and was sitting outside his office door, and shot him with a double-barrelled gun loaded with buck-shot. He assigned as a reason Lane's intimacy with his barrelled gun loaded with buck-shot. He as-signed as a reason Lane's intimacy with his wife, and his wife's confession of that fact. The testimony of all witnesses The testimony of all witnesses, including his wife, disproved all these statements, and left no motive for the crime except an old grudge aroused by Lane's part by counsel in a case where Lester was interested.

A Desperado Killed.

CORRIGAN, Tex., February 21.—John Mc-Celvy was shot and killed at this place last night by Sheriff Holcomb and a posse from Houston county. RALEIGH, N. G., Pebruary 21.—[Spacial.] Governor Scales is considering a petition for a commutation of the death sentence of James Thomas, who, if there is no interference, will be hanged at Hendersonville March 6th.

The revivalist, R. G. Pearson, has begun a great meeting at Newbern. The attendance is the largest ever known there.

A school teacher named Walter Pearson has disappeared from the town of Winder, in Moore county, in a very mysterious manner. He was teaching, and left a note on his desk saying he was called away, and would not return.

Today deeds of trust of the Lynchburg and Durham railway to the mercantile trust company of New York, in the sum of one million six hundred and eighty thousand dollars, were recorded at Durham.

Professor Alexander Graham, the recently elected superintendent of the Charlotte graded schools, took charge today.

Yesterday the decomposed body of a negre child, partly enveloped in a sack, was found in the suburbs of Durham. It had been partially devoured by dogs.

Today the deputy sheriff brought to the pententiary from Charlotte, Americus Smith, a negro from Cabarrus county, who some months ago escaped from the penitentiary, and had since been in hiding.

Several physicians of Durham county have been presented by the grand jury for prescribed liquor when it was not reeded by persons who applied for it.

J. C. Morgan, general merchant of Laurinsburg, has assigned.

Treasurer Jenkins, of Durham, has for months refused to pay out funds for the maintenance of the graded schools in Durham township, and much feeling and law suits have resulted. He has, at last, receded from this position fand has begun to make the payments. These Durham school cases have been vexatious, and one of them is now before the supreme court. Some have been compromised. The schools now get possession of their funds and their success is assured.

A HEAVY FAILURE.

A HEAVY FAILURE.

A Large Pittsburg Iron Firm Makes an Assignment.

Pittsburg, February 21.—Graff Bennett company, iron manufacturers of this city, filed a deed of assignment to P. H. Miller, of Pittsburg, to-day. The failure was a great surprise, as nothing of the kind was looked for. In 1883 the firm failed for $120,000 and were granted an extension. Since then they have paid about two-thirds of their indebtedness, and were supposed to be doing well. The cause of the failure was investment of all their profits in the extension of their plant. No statement has yet been made, but it is understood that secured liabilities are about $600,000 and unsecured liabilities from $600,000. The latter consists of notes for ore and other materials. Among the liabilities is a mortgage for $450,000 held by the New York Life Insurance company, which is not yet due. The assets are believed to be about $800,000. Judgments, laggregating $70,000, were entered against the firm this morning.

ROME, February 21.—The firm of Fraettell & Moreni, contractors, has failed, with liabilities of 50,000 000 lire. It is stated that the company Deel Esquillino is a creditor to the amount of $207,000,000 lire, the Tiber bank to the amount of $6,000,000 lire, and the National bank to the amount of 2,000,000 lire.

The Mississippi Securities Taking a High Place.

JACKSON, Miss., February 21.—[Special.]—Regarding the publication in the Meridian News that two of the leading business men of Meridian returned yesterday morning from Mobile, and was informed by a Mobile banker that he had some Mississippi bonds worth 107, and when the senate bill No. 107 passed the Mississippi senate, his client authorized him to sell the bonds at once, he put them on the market and had offered them as low as 100, but as yet had found no bidder. Your correspondent, who called the state treasurer's attention to the matter, was informed by that officer that he had no knowledge of any decline in the price of Mississippi state bonds; that during the past two weeks, and, in fact, up to date, he has received applications to buy Mississippi sixes at 106, and can't supply the The Mississippi Securities Taking a High

Montgomery, Ala., February 21.—[Special.]
A special to the Advertiser from W. L. Chambers, now in New York, says that the line for the proposed new railroad between Montgomery and Maplesville is now being located, to ascertain the cost of building the road, and if the estimates submitted by Mr. Chambers are verified, the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company will indorse the bonds of the Great Northwestern, and the road will be pushed through.

Pardoned by the Governor New Orleans, February 21.—Dan Brown, who was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced a few days ago, by Judge Baker, to six months' imprisonment in the penitentiary at hard labor for the killing of Adolph Zeenneck, of the "Mascott." for the publication in that paper of an article concerning his alleged intimacy with a lady in Algiers, was pardoned yesterday by Governor McEnery.

Strike on the Georgia Pacific,
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 21.—[Special.]
The switchmen and yardmen of the Georgia Pacific railroad, about fifty in number, struck tonight tagainst a reduction of wages. The company ordered a reduction of twenty-five cents per day in the wages of the men and tonight they refused to work. No trains are being made up tonight as no effort has been made to get new men. It is thought the trouble will be settled tomorrow or new men secured. The men were receiving $1.25 to $1.50 per day.

recently visited the resort, and gives the result of his observations in the following extract clipped from the Greenwood Tribune:

The curative value of the place for some diseases is very remarkable. Rheumatism, dyspepsia, paralysis and some forms of nervousness were signally relieved in individuals coming under my personal observation: one yousness were signally relieved in individuals coming under my personal observation; one young man from McCormick, S. C., who had been prostrated for seventeen months by deranged digestion, was thoroughly cured, gaining eighteen pounds in one month. An elderly gentleman from Penfield, Ga., who had been partially paralyzed on one side for eight years, arrived at the shaft in the same hack with myself. His right hand was disabled, and he walked with great difficulty when he arrived, but after six days in the shaft he could write letters to his family, and walking with comparative ease about the grounds. Many such cases are reported by reliable persons familiar with the history of the place.

Now as to the remedial agencies at work in effecting these wonderful cures, I must speak with more caution. A very common impression of the place is that the roll.

effecting these wonderful cures, I must speak with more caution. A very common impression prevailing at a distance is that the relief afforded partakes of the nature of the "faith cures" of which we hear so much; but no one can remain long at the place without being convinced that this hypothesis is indefensible. In many cases cures come to the incredulous, and in spite of all the laws of faith. The prevailing theory among the visitors at the shait is that the effect is produced from electricity derived from the walls and earth floor of the rooms. To test this belief in some practical form I made the following experiment: Two No. 16 copper wires, each 12 fect long, were inserted into the walls at opposite corners of shaft No. 1. In the absence of a scientific galvometer, I introduced into the circuit of these wires several of the most equable and self-No. 1. In the absence of a scientific galvometer, I introduced into the circuit of these wires several of the most equable and self-poised patients who were present, to see if they could detect any current from the wall through the wires. Six persons were introduced in succession, and all except one claimed to feel in the wires the same tingling sensations which they derived directly from the wall. Of course, excited imagination and nervous irritability are unknown quantities which cannot be eliminated from this problem, so long as the human system is employed in its solution, but it is scarcely credibable that so many reliable and sober persons would be mistaken in identifying the sensation derived from the wires with the sensation given by the walls.

There is much difficulty still remaining in this problem, as to the origin of the electricity, the irregular fitful way in which it acts, and many other points suggested by the abnormal many other points suggested by the abnormal conditions of the case.

Among the remedial agencies at work, the excellent mineral water cannot be overlooked, indeed, I was at first disposed to ascribe all the cures chiefly to this agent, which is obtained in abundance from pumps in the corners of the shafts, and freely used by the patients.

WASHINGTON, Ga., January 23, 1888 .- Mr. Washington, Ga., January 23, 1888.—Mr. James A. Benson, President: I certify that for ten years I have been a great sufferer with rheumatism, which became very much aggravated in the last two or three years. At times I was confined to my bed and house; was unable to walk without crutches, and was compelled to give up all work. My sufferings were intense. I applied to different doctors for relief, but experienced none from their treatment. Last summer I visited the Electric Health Resort at Hillman, and after staying there awhile and drinking the Electric Waters, my rheumatism was entirely cured, and I have my rhounatism was entirely cured, and I have not had the slightest return of it. It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great healing properties of this wonderful place and its waters, and nothing that I could say would too strongly express my confidence in its virtues.

EDWARD BOXSER.

WASHINGTON, Ga., January 19.—Mr. James A. Benson, President: I take pleasure in bearing testimony to the remarkable virtues of the Electric Health Resort. My little daughter, Bessie, 10 years old, had an attack of a very serious nature, affecting her neck, in June last.

Alarmed at her condition, I had her treated by the most skillful physicians in this place and Atlanta, who used artificial electricity and other remedies. In September she was still suffering, and no change perceptible, when, as a last resort, we went to the electric shaft. She only went twice. The first visit improved her, and the second night she remained all night in the rooms, and came home completely restored and has remained so. These are facts, and I state them with noother object than to inform others suffering as did my little girl of the wonderful virtues of this resort.

MR. B. F. Brown: Dea Sir—This certifies that during last May I was stricken with severe nervous prostration, was confined to my room for three menths, and to my bed for the greater vart of the time. About the 20th of August I went to the "Hillman Shaft" (Electric Resort,) and after spending four days there found that I was completely cured, and have been entirely well ever since then. The cure in my case was a great wonder to me and my friends, and I am a strong believer in the virtues of the place.

GEORGIA POLITICS. Voice of the People From the Various Counties.

APPLING, G2., February 21.—[Special.]—
The political pot is beginning to beil in the "Republic of Columbia" and quite a number of candidates for the lower house are actively in the field—among the number, Captain O. Hardy, Colonel D. C. Moore and Major George W. King. Columbia will not put forward a candidate for senator this time. Lincoln county has two candidates for that office Hon. J. W. Barsdale and Colonel J. E. Strother—while they are both good democrats, many if not a majority of Columbia's people would prefer to see Hon. M. P. Reese, of Wilkes, or Thomas E. Watson, of McDuffle represent them in the senate. Many in Columbia are opposed to the rotation system and think the best man should fill the office regardless of the county from which he hails. The people are a unit for free trade.

DeKalb's New Crop.

Roswell Junction, Ga., February 21.
[Special.]—Politics are as still as death in this part of DeKalb, but no doubt will come to the front before a great while, as we have plenty of good material, and this part of the county has had but one representative within the last quarter of a century. Ex-Representative G. L. Humphries, whose health debarred his making the last race, is in fine trim. Rev. W. C. Hobrook, a local Methodist minister and county commissioner of roads, would fill the place well; while we have the talented young gentleman in Benjamin J. Simpkins, a ripe scholar, a successful planter and stock taiser. He is well known as Simpkins (the checker player.) and is doubtful as to whether he has peer in that line in the state. Judge John Simpkins, the father of the above, would represent us with dignity and ability.

Screven County Salad.

Svilvania, Ga., February 21.—Dr. John W.
Johnstone, of Scarboro, who so mbly looked after the interests of our people in the house of representatives during the last two terms, will be effered for the senate. The doctor was elected to the legislature the last time without any opposition and it is generally thought that he will tread the same primrose path into the senate. But the doctor had anything but a primrose time of it the first time that he was elected to the legislature. The name of Hon. T. W. Oliver, of Sylvania, has been mentioned by some of his friends in this connection—that is for the senate, but, of course, this was done without his knowledge, and it is not known that he will be a candidate. Mr. Oliver was elected to the senate six years ago, after one of the most exciting contests ever known in this county, and served out the term with honor to himself and satisfaction to his constituents.

Our people have not begun to interest themselves yet in regard to the congressional race-local politics being decidedly more interest.

Morgan's Legislative Timber. Morgan's Legislative Timber:
MADISON, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]— Morgan has senatorial timber in seasoning for the nomination when the time arrives, in Captain W.S. McHenry, Colonel J. H.Holland and Colonel W. A. Braughton, each of which will make a very acceptable senator, and representative timber in Colonel James S. Reak, J. J.
Clark and G. H. Wagmon. All are good and true democrats.

Putnam County Politics. EATONTON, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]— There is some discussion on state road lease and betterments, but as the people are a unit against paying Brown anything for better-ments, there will be no fight in this county on that question.
Putnam is at a normal state in the political line, there being no candidates yet named for the legislature and no move made in that di-

Decatur County Dots.

Bainbridge, Ga., February 21.—Hons. J.
D. Howell and E. Rech will be returned from here to the legislature, if they so desire. There will be a candidate from Decatur county for the judgeship. Should the present incumbent, Bower, wish to retire, the bar and people will present Hon. A. L. Hawes for the position before the next general assembly.

Macon County Political Matters.

Marshallville, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—As far as Macon county is concerned as yet, there is scarcely a perceptible simmer in the political cauldron. The senator from this district will be chosen from Macon county, according to the customary rotary system. It is highly probable for this office that the contestants will be Hon. W. H. Felton and Colonel J. M. Dupree, both ex-representatives, and both deservedly popular. For the house, the names of the Hon. Davis Gammage, Thomas Lofley, A. J. Cheeves have been suggested. Mr. L. O. Niles would make a typical representative, should he make the effort sufficient to win the race. There are other good and true men who are chafing the bit and ready to save the country from any impending calamities. Personal popularity will alone decide the issue, as they are all good democrats, and there are no local issues.

Hon. C. F. Crisp., as congressman, is decidedly popular, and no opposition to him is mentioned.

Jacksonian Politics.

Jefferson, Ga., February 21.—[Special.] —
It is said that Jackson county is now about ready to organize for the campaign of 1888. The bold stand that our present member, Colonel Candler, has taken in the repeal of the revenue law, and his opposition to the Blair educational ball, and his position in reference to national bank and state banking institutions has doubly endeared him to his friends in the ninth district. Colonel George N. Lester has announced himself as a candidate on exactly the same platform that Colonel Candler has been on in congress for the last four years, and there can be no issue between them. Colonel Inere can be no issue between them. Colonel Lester, with his mountain friends, will no doubt enter the convention with a good number of delegates, and if we cannot have a harmonious convention, there will be a good chance for a dark horse. Several are tied out. Among the tied out colts I might mention Judge J. B. Estes, of Hall, Colonel W. I. Pike and Judge H. W. Bell, of Jackson, and Colonel W. E. Simmons, of Gwinnett county. Either one would make a good member. The senatorial race is confined to Jackson county this time, and among those mentioned are Colonel W. C. Howard, W. S. McCarty and J. P. Hudson. Of the number mentioned Colonel Howard has the lead, having served his county as ordinary for four years to the satisfaction of all parties, and being always publicly known as one of the iron ribbed democracy of his district. No candidates for the house as yet.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

SAVANNAH'S JUBILEE.

The Unveiling of the Monument to Jasper.

Governor Gordon's Arrival-The Approach of the President-The Incoming Crowde.

Savannah, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—Governor John B. Gordon and his staff will reach Savannah tomorrow morning at 6:20 o'clock, and will be met at the Central railroad depot by Colonel J. H. Estill, Colonel John Screven, Colonel George A. Mercer, P. W. Meldrim, and Captain John R. Dillon, representing the Jasper Monument asso-ciation, and by Captain Robert Falligant and Mosers, W. W. Williamson, LeRoy Myres, A. Vetsburg, J. J. Dale, H. L. Focill and R. G. Owing. The governor will be the guest of Captain W. W. Gordon, but will have his beadquarters at the Pulaski.

Governor Richardson, of South Carolina, has telegraphed that he cannot be present to-morrow. He has been urged to come on morrow. He has been urged to come on Thursday. An hour later the president's party is expected. President Cleveland's special train will be met at an over junction by an engine, which will be taken out by Superintendent Fleming. This special engine all bring the train into the yard, and the last car on the train will be the one nearest Liberty street.

This will prevent any shifting when the train moves out. Mr. W. B. McKee, the comp-troller of the road, has entire charge of the arrangements for the arrival of the party. Long lines of cadets will block the eastern tracks between the depot and the general offices, and the special will come in on the track nearest the general offices. A barbed wire fence has been stretched down the east fence has been stretched down the east side of the track and down the platform on the west side, turning to the right. When the piazza is reached the president and Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, Colenel and Mrs. Lamont will be ushered into Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, Colonel and Mrs. Lamont will be ushered into the long room, where the festival reception committee will be in waiting. After the reception the party will drive through East Broad street to Bay, along Bay to Whittaker, to Bryan, along and by the east side of Johnson to Congress, then to Barnard, to Broughton, to Abercorn, to President, along President, and by Oglethorpe square, through President, and by the north side of Wright square, to the west of Barnard, and through to South Broad, and through the center of the street to Bull out Bull to Easton, to Whittaker, to New Houston, to Drayton, to Easton and back to Bull. In the first carriage, with the president, will be Colonel Ruïus E. Lester, mayor of Savannah, and Captain Robert Falligant, chairman of the reception committee. In the second carriage will be Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, General E. P. Alexander and Fleming G. Du Bignon. Next there will be Mr. and Mrs. Lamont, Judge A. P. Adams and Major D. C. Bacon. In the fourth carriage will be Messrs. J. J. Dall, W. G. Charlton, Judge Wm. D. Harden and Mrs. J. F. Minis. Mr. Ed Gleason will drive the president's carriage, which will be drawn by four white horses.

The party may get here as early as 8 o'clock, white horses.

The party may get here as early as 8 o'clock, standard time, and the train may be two three hours late. The railroad men here say they cannot tell when the special will arrive. The indeaniteness of this particular has prevented the positive announcement of a pro-

A great crowd is already in the city. The hotels are filled and private boarding houses are rapidly reaching their capacity, but ample arrangements have been made to accommedate all who are likely to come. The weather is clearing, and the streets tonight are thronged.

THE JASPER MONUMENT.

The arrival of Governor John B. Gordon and the fact that President Cleveland and wife will spend five hours here, adds greatly to the interest felt in the unveiling of the statue to Sergeaut Jasper.

Like many important historical characters,
Jasper had no Boswell and his biographers have had to search closely for material for anything more than the merest sketch of his life. The traditionary stories in which he figures were so numerous at one time that figures were so numerous at one time that choniclers who desired to keep as close to the truth line as they well could were bothered to enoliciers who desired to keep as close to the truth line as they well could were bothered to know what to accept and what to reject. The best authorities say he was Irish. The Irish claim him, and he had the impulsive bravery of that people, mingled with the dash and spirit of his Carolina.

In Jasper's life three incidents stand out in bold relief. Either one alone would suffice to carry his name down through the ages. In chronological order, the first was his recovery of the fallen colors at Fort Moultrie, for which he was publicly commended by Governor Rutledge, of South Carolina, who tendered the young patriot the sincerest thanks and congratulations of the commonwealth. The presentation of his sword by the governor to Jasper, "as a reward for his bravery and incitement to further deeds of valor," is a historical fact known to every schoolboy today in the union.

The second of the trio of Jasper's most emi-

The second of the trio of Jasper's most eminent displays of courage and heroism was his rescue of the two American prisoners at Jasper spring, near Savannah, early in 1779. How Jasper and his bosom friend, Sergeant Newton, surprised the ten British guards, made them prisoners and liberated the Americans, is also known to every school child in this country. The adventure was desperate in the extreme, and its conception could have originated only with one of Jasper's admitted daring.

The third act of great daring was on the oc-casion when he lost his life, and it is the one which the artist has fixed in bronze. The third act of great daring was on the occasion when he lost his life, and it is the one which the artist has fixed in bronze.

At the attack on Savannah by the Americans, October 6, 7, 8 and 9, 1779, Jasper was in the hottest of the fight continually. On the morning of October?, when the final desperate assault was made on the British lines, Jasper was in front of a column. A bullet shattered his arm early in the engagement, but he fought on. When the retreat was sounded Jasper was endeavoring to replace upon the parapet the colors which had been struck down upon the fall of Lieutenant Bush, when he received a second and a mortal hurt. Recollecting, however, even in this moment of supreme agony, the pledges given when from the fair hands of Mrs. Elliott, of Charleston, this emblem of hope and confidence had been received, and summoning his expiring energies for the final effort, he snatched those colors from the grasp of the triumphant enemy and bore them from the bloody field, but died within an hoar. The place of his sepulture is untarked. He sleeps with the brave dead of the siege who lie beneath the soil of Savannah.

Half a century ago Judge Robert M. Charlton, in a paper on Jasper exclaimed: "Once more let me ask the question, how long shall we suffer his name to be unrecorded in our midst? It is our duty to erect the historical milestones along the almost forgotten road of Georgia's danger and Georgia's glory."

Judge Charlton endeavored earnestly to induce the citizens of Savannah to rear a monument to Jasper, but did not live to see the work consummated. His efforts, however, have brought forth fruit. Something more than a decade ago two or three genclemen went quietly to work to secure a lasting tribute to Jasper's memory. Others were brought in, until thirteen men, representing the rumber of the original states, pledged themselves to raise a fund for the erection of a statue. On the centennial anniversary of Jasper's death, October 9, 1879, the comer stone of the pedestal was laid with Masonic cer

m., if his special train is on time. In his party will be Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary Whitney and Mrs. Whitney, Private Secretary Lamont and Mrs. Lamont. These visitors will be given a reception in the long room of the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway company's general offices immediately after the arrival of the train.

eral offices immediately after the arrival of the train.

The reception will be confined to the railway officials, city officials, the reception committed and a few prominent citizens. Then the party will take carriages and will drive through East Broad street to the Bay, along Bay to Whitaker, to Bryan, along Bryan and by the east side of Johnson square to Congress, then to Barnard, to Broughton, to Abercorn, to President, along President and by the north side of Oglethorpe square through President, and by the north side of Wright square to the west of Barnard, through to South Broad and through the center of the street to Bull, out Bull to Gaston, to Whitaker, to New Houston, to Drayton, to Gaston and back to Bull.

THE BUILDING BOOM,

Which is Making Quite a City of the Old

Which is Making Quite a City of the Old Capital.

MILLEGEVILLE, Ga., February 21—[Special.] Milledgeville's building boom continues, and new houses are being erected in every portion of this city. Mr. L. J. Lamar is erecting an elegant residence on Washington avenue, just below the house he now occupies. When completed this will be one of the most valuable homes in the city.

The remodeling of the Darien bank, which is now a popular hotel, the improvements of the beautiful homes of Messrs. Callaway and Cline and work of similar nature on other houses on this street, has made Greene street one of the prettiest in this city. Jefferson street is the pride of the town, and the large amount of building, improving and painting recently done, has given it a regular Peachtree appearance. Work will begin at one on the repairs of the Methodist church. About $5,000 will be expended, about $2,000 of which will go toward the purchase of a new organ. The Doonee house, which has been closed since Christmas, has been leased by Mr. J. W. Mann, of Perry, Ga., and will be opened to the public in a few days. The Oconee river bridge is again completed and Milledgeville's "over the river" trade is running in its proper channel.

IT WAS A NARROW ESCAPE. Was the Recent Accident on the A., P. &

Was the Recent Accident on the A., P. & L. WAFKIN, Ga., February 21.—[Special.] The Independent published an account of the accident on the A., P. & L. R.R. last Tuesday night, which report shows it to have been a narrow escape from a fearful catastrophe. It is as follows:

"As the train was coming down a heavy grade just beyond Sawyer's mill, about three and a half miles from town, when just beyond a trestle, perhaps twenty yards, the front trucks of a freight car next to the tender, jumped the track. By the time it reached the trestle one pair of wheels by some means broke loose, and became wedged in under the trucks nearly endways with the car, the inner wheel just inside the rail, while the outer one just touched the end of the crossties. As soon as the engineer heard the crash, he blew on brakes, but the train could not then be stopped short of a hundred yards or more. The inner wheel of the pair that had broken loose gonged great trenches in the crossties all across the trestle, while the outer wheel scraped the guard rail on the outer curve of the trestle. Several crossties on the trestle were broken, and the others shivered and splintered badly. After getting across the trestle, the flange of the wheel played havoc with the crossties for another hundred yards, when this pair of wheels broke loose and was thrown from the track. The rear truck of the same car remained on the track, as did all the thrown from the track. The rear truck of the same car remained on the track, as did all the other cars. How the train escaped being thrown from the trestle seems almost miracu-

World.

Augusta, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—It has been claimed that Augusta has been asleep. Whether true or false in the past, she is certainly wide-awake now, and is looking after her interests on every hand. She has taken prompt cognizance of the excursion rates obtained from the railroads by the southern immigration and development association. President Tobin of the exchange, has called a mass meeting of the unerchants and all public spirited citizens at the Augusta exchange tomorrow, to formuthe merchants and all public spirited citizens at the Augusta exchange tomorrow, to formulate a plan by which the city can be properly advertised, so as to reap the benefit of the low rates to be given by the various railroads to visitors to the south, in the next sixty days, from the north and northwest.

The 22d of February will be observed in Augusta only by the closing of the postoffice and banks. There will be no military or civic display of any kind.

Religion from a Medical Standpoint.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—A large and attentive audience gathered at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Sunday afternoon to hear religion discussed from a medical standpoint. The presence of Dr. W. A. O'Daniel, of Twiggs county, was prevented on account of illness on his part, but Drs. N. P. Jelks and A. A. Smith, leading M. D.'s of our town, read some interesting papers upon the subject, while the impromptu talks of Dr. Ross, of Fort Valley, E. M. Whing, J. J. Whitfield and A. B. Coon found attentive listeners. Five new applications for membership were received, making the total membership of the association sixty-three, and this number is confidently expected to reach one hundred in the next few days. Colonels C. C. Smith and R. C. Jordan will talk next Sunday afternoon upon religion from a legal standpoint.

The Trial of the Alleged Murderer Concluded.

The Contradictory Evidence Given In-What the Lawyers Had to Say-The Probable Result.

DECATUR, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—
The courtroom at Decatur was densely packed today with colored people, who appeared deeply interested in the trial of Alex Lovejoy for murder. By instruction of the court, parties summoned as jurors and not on the jury trying the case, were required to keep out of the courtroom during the trial in order tha they might not disqualify themselves from bethey might not disqualify themselves from being jurors in the other cases. At the opening of the court, General L. J. Gartrell addressed the jury, detailing what the defense expected to prove. The state had the names of fifteen witnesses on the indictment and only four were sworn. It was forced on the defendant the facts as they were, by men who did not get behind breastworks. He expected to prove that the assault was made on the colored people as they were going home, peaceably They were followed by Hurst and others.

They were followed by Hurst and others.

They were out of the corporate limits, and were pursued by Patillo and others. If the killing was only manslaughter in Hubert it could not be murder in Lovejoy, when it had been shown he did not kill Hurst. If Hubert fired back when fired on and killed Hurst it was not murder.

The first witnesses introduced for the defense was Jackson Langford who testified as follows: I was night-watching in Decatur on the 26th of August, 1887. Mr. Hurst, the town marshal. told me that night that on the next day he expected a large crowd at the town marshal. told me that night that on the next day he expected a large crowd at the tabernacle, and if there should be any difficulty that he wanted me and J. H. Chivers to be there to assist him. I got there about ten o'clock. I saw Marshal Hurst and Bailiff Rodgers with a black man under arrest. They had hold of him, and Hurst put his nippers on the man's hand. When they got near the railroad the prisoner stopped, but went on, and twenty or thirty steps beyond again stopped. A large crowd gathered around. Some one jerked Mr. Rodgers loose. Mr. Hurst drew his pistol and called out to the crowd to sfand back. Witness told Hurst not to use his pistol, as there were a large number around, tol, as there were a large number around, many with knives and rocks in their hands. The crowd gathered hold of Hubert, the man under arrest, and ran off with him. The negroes all shouted, "They took him away."

Marshal Hurst said after this that he would be at the train and arrest Hubert. Without soft there twenty or twenty-five minutes before Marshal Hurst said after this that he would be at the train and arrest Hubert. Witness got there twenty or twenty-five minutes before the arrival of the train. Hubert and two others were half way between the depot and the McDonough crossing. Pritchett was one of the other men with Hubert. Don't think Lovejoy was the other man. We overtook them near the crossing. Hubert had an open pocket knife in his hand. Sheriff Austin tried to knock the knife out of Hubert's hand. Austin hit at him several times. Hubert backed, striking at the sheriff with his knife. The black negro saip, "Let me talk to him," meaning Hubert. They went up the Hoyle cut. Pritchett was standing around with a pistol in his hand. As Hubert walked up the cut Pritchett overtook him and pushed him along; the other negroes joined in pushing. Marshal Hurst was in advance in pursuit. Marshal Hurst was in advance in pursuit.
Pattillo said that it would never do not to arrest these parties. We overtook the negroes at the upper end of Hoyle's cut. Sheriff Austin shoved Hubert off of the railroad track.
Hubert struck at the sheriff with his knife.
Mr. Pattillo struck Hubert's hand with a cane. Bailiff Rodgers hit Hubert over the head with a pistol. Pritchett fired and the firing became general. If Lovejoy was there I did not see him. I was sent for to go to the stationhouse in Atlanta to identify Lovejoy. I said that if he was there I didn't see him.
I could not tell how many shots were fired by either side. I saw a black man shooting. At the crossing Sheriff Austin said, "Let him go, we will arrest him hereafter." Mr. Pattillo was armed with a pistol, and said, "Arrest them." I did not see any other colored people fire except Pritchett and the black man.

BY THE COURT.

I could not tell whether Lovejoy was in the crowd that rescued Hubert or not.

Sheriff Austin was the next witness. He testified that he saw Hubert, Oscar Gaither and Pritchett at the MeDonough crossing. Hubert resisted. Gaither said, "Let me talk to him." I said let him go, we'll get him another time. Mr. Pattillo said, "Let's go and get him." I drove Jack and Henry Goldsmith back at MeDonough crossing. Hurst and Pattillo stopped Hubert. I had Hurst's club. Hubert struck at me with a knife, Pattillo struck Hubert's hand. Shots were fired from the colored crowd. Several shots were fired before I fired. I shot at Pritchett because he shot at me. He snapped his pistol and fied. I shlowed. I called on Oscar to stop, but they broke through the woods with Pritchett. I went back to Hurst. He was dead. I started up the Georgia railroad. I overtook Pritchett and Lovejoy just the other side of Cassel's cut. Just then William Schley Howard came up from the direction of Decatur, and pointing over to the woods near Captain Sisson's residence, said, two men were running through the woods. I didn't recognize either Pritchett or Lovejoy then. Gaither had a derby hat or beaver on. He'was long, tall and black. He is the only man I could swear to in the crowd. I think Pritchett shot Hurst. I shot six times—at the black negro once, and the others at Pritchett. It was a very short time after the shooting when I overtook Pritchett and Lovejoy at Cassel's cut. Pritchett said his name was Johnson. Lovejoy said his name was Lovejoy.

J. W. Kirkpatrick, notary public and excendic justice of the peace, testified that he issued a warrant against Wesley Hubert and Jack Goldsmith for resisting an officer and rescuing a prisoner.

Cuing a prisoner.

Lizzie Davis, colored, testified that she was at the celebration, and that Alex Lovejoy agreed to go home with her that evening, but failed to do so. She came np the road and crossed the railroad at Duck's crossing, just after the half past five o'clock train went up. She never saw Lovejoy.

Henry Traylor testified that he lives at Clark university. Lovejoy lived there at the time. Had known Lovejoy since he was a boy. I was at the celebration. I met Lovejoy and Lizzie Davis. He was going towards the row, I was coming away from it.

Mollie Pratt, colored, testified that she lives in Atlanta and had known Lovejoy three or four years. She attended the celebration. After Hubert was taken from the officers, I was at the spring. Lovejoy came there and said he was sick. I went for ice cream for him. Afterwards I was at the railroad depot and he passed up the road, saying that he was going to overtake Lizzie Davis. He went up the railroad. In a short while thereafter the firing commenced. It was a little after four o'clock when Lovejoy passed the depot.

After Hubert was taken from the officers I spoke to Hurst: "If that fellow will go on peaceably will you object?" Hurst said: "All right; go ahead." My brother telling me that Lizzie Davis had gone home, I started to overtake her. I overtook Hubert and the others and passed them. I had got some distance ahead when I looked back and saw white men coming. I heard pistols firing. I could not tell who did the firing. I kept on toward Kirkwood. I saw Pritchett twenty-five yards behind me; don't know whether he came out of the woods or not. Saw Austin just behind him. Pritchett overtook me and we walked along to Kirkwood station. UNDER THE WATER.

The Strange Patality Connected With the Oconee Bridge. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., February 21 .- [Special.]—The Oconee bridge, at this place, was the scene of another fatal accident, this even-ing. The recent rains had caused the river to rise about sixteen feet, and logs and rafters were being swept rapidly down the stream. Mr. Bud Moran went out on the scaffold and with a long pole was trying to keep the rafters from the bridge. In some way he lost his bal-ance and fell in the stream. He was an old man and could swim but very little, but the man and could swim but very little, but the pole he had floated and kept him above the water for about two hundred yards. Every effort was made to reach him, but the only beat near was chained and locked, and the old man was allowed to fill a watery grave. When last seen he was piteously praying for help. There seems to be a strange fatality about the Oconee bridges at this place. In the course of construction several men have lost their lives and a half dozen have been seriously injured.

From the Athens, Ga., Banner.

The Banner-Watchman met up with one of the best cotton buyers and samplers in our city yesterday. He said: "You haven't put it in strong enough about the farmers packing cotton. Come right in here and I will show you a bale that has been false packed or plated. And the buyer and reporter went into the large warehouse of the Reaves Warehouse company and examined a bale that was middling cotton on the outside and in the middle was as poor cotton as could be picked.

"This is good cotton, said the buyer, to some we get. The farmer thinks it a sharp trick to get such cotton off on the buyer, but we detect it by boring with our gimlet and reclamation is made at once. This bale the farmer sold at a good price, but his fraud was detected and he had to pay back $4.80 on the bale.

The buyers are getting tired of this business, and are determined to prosecute the next man who attempts to palm off a plated bale of cotton and give him a good fine and a term in the Georgia chaingang. Said the cotton buyer: "There are farmers who stand high in the church and occupy the amen seats, who have been caught bringing the false packed bales to market.

in the recent dummy line matter. They now see that it was for the city's interest, and that alone, that he would not allow them rights that had never been granted any one else. But, nevertheless, it has been proven that the motive power used on street railways is not obnoxious or dangerous to people and property along its line, as the following telegram will show:

show:

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., February 21, 1888.—Henry Horne, Macon., Ua. The dummy line in this city enters the heart of the city at two points. It is the most potent factor in the building up of the city yet undertaken here. Not only has it built up the town, but added thousands to the population of the suburbs. Our enterprising people have given the Union Railway company (owners of the line) franchises, right-of-way, money and lands to the value of not less than $250,000, and regard it as the best investment they ever made. The loss of the line here would mean the partial ruin of the city. Would lose us thousands of people and millions of manufacturing capital.

It is a well-known fact that there is not a city in this section of the south that is growing any faster, and the editor of the Times and Tradesman says that it is one of the most important factors in the building up of that city.

the mayor and city attorney. It reads as following:

CHATTANOGA, Tenn., February 21, 1888.—Henry Horne, Macon, Ga.: As the moter line is managed, it is a benefit and one of the best improvements to any city. The motor is no nuisance. Has built Chattanoga up and we want more of them.

Dr. J. L. GASTON, JOHN B. MICKLIN, City Attorney.

Now there is no one that can read the above from the mayor and prominent persons of our sister cities and think otherwise of the dummy, than that it is an important stactor in a city's history.

But the dummy line will be built. There is hardly a shadow of a doubt of it. At the regular meeting of the council tonight the amended contract was read, and but one change made, which gives the road power to appeal to the courts should the city pass ordinances on its government which it would not agree to. It is thought that the contract will be drawn in regular form and signed by all parties tomorrow, and if it is, rails will be telegraphed for, which will arrive in three days. Work will begin at both ends of the line early next week. which will arrive in three days. Work will begin at both ends of the line early next week. SELMA, February 21, 1888.—Evening News: Hearing of opposition to proposed motor line, I desire to say that such a line is in operation here, and that it is an enterprise this city would not do without. It is practically noiseless and smokeless. Dees not interfere with traffic or frighten horses, and has caused no accidents. Most cheerfully recommend the motor cars in preference to all others.

Now, the dummy has been in operation for some length of time in Selma, and the mayor and every one else is satisfied with it. It is noiseless, smokeless, and so far has hurt no one and caused no run-aways. A Constitution reporter, in conversation with a prominent northern gentleman on the subject, today, he said that he had traveled nearly all over the union, and had riden on most of them, and that average did not make as much noise as the cars and bells on our belt line.

A Jacksonian Democrat.

President Cleveland is to be congratulated In having put a Jacksonian democrat at the head of the postoffice department. The new postmaster general is such, and he has proceeded to work in a very business-like way, and after a fashion which should commend him to the hearty good will of all democrats. Among other things which Mr. Dickinson did on assuming the duties of his new office was to look about preparatory to making a general sweep of republican officeholders who were holding over in his department. He did not like the idea of being held responsible to a democratic administration, if the work for which he was thus to be held responsible, was to be intrusted to republican hands. Mr. Dickinson acted very wisely about this, as he has done in many other particulars, in the short time which he has been in office. Indeed, as he has accomplished so much in so short a time, the democracy has reason to hope for still greater things from him in the time which he has yet to serve. Mr. Dickinson is from Michigan, and naturally feels a great interest in the political affairs of his state. Several days ago an election was held in the Marquette district of that state to fill the congressional vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Moffatt. the republican member from that district. This election resulted in an almost wiping out of the republican majority, and, as the district had heretofore been regarded as the banner republican district of the state, great enthusiasm was manifested by the democrats over the sweeping victory which they had This district gave Blaine more than 8.000 pluralty over Cleveland, and two years afterwards the republican majority was reduced to 2,234. In the face of these figures the result of the recent election was particularly gratifying to Mr. Dickinson, who im mediately telegraphed from Washington to the chairman of the democratic state central committee of Michigan as follows:

All delighted here. My congratulations on your magnificent campaign. The banuer republican district is not recognizable after the charge of our noble fellows, splendidly led. Give my love to the gallant patriots of northern Michigan DON M. DICKINSON.

This commendable display of delight on the part of the postmaster general has proven very displeasing to the republican press, and the St. Louis Globe Democrat complains that it is hardly in the line of civil service reform. It may not be, and if it is not, Mr. Dickinson is to be congratu lated all the more for his interest in the Michigan democracy. The democratic party will say to Mr. Dickinson just what he said to the postmaster of Marquette, who wrote to him to ask whether he could take part in the election contest in that district. The postmaster general replied, "All the rights of American citizenship are yours, and whatever you might do in that capacity will be approved by the depart-

The Cotton Seed Oil Tax.

With respect to the proposition to tax refined lard mixed with refined cotton seed oil, there are some facts that the public and congress ought to know. In the first place refined lard, mixed with refined cotton seed oil, is a much more wholesome product than the lard made wholly of swine's fat. The lard is refined and the cotton seed oil that is used is refined to a point where it could be brought into successful competition with

In the second place, the refined lard mixed with refined cotton seed oil, is sold to the public at a much lower price than the swine's fat which the Dawes bill proposes to protect. It is a wholesome article of food, and no protest has been made by those who are in the habit of using it.

There is another fact that congress ough to bear in mind. The consumers of lard have not asked for this legislation. There is not today a single petition signed by any respectable body of consumers. There is one complaint-there is no protest-from that source. It is to be hoped, moreover, that congress will bear in mind that it is against sound public policy to tax food pro ducts, or to restrict the sale of those which cheapen the cost of living; and that it is also against public policy to discourage those industries which add to the wealth o the country by making valuable articles of commerce products that would otherwise be

If a wholesome article of food is to be subjected to federal taxation, where is such legislation to end? The proposed legislation will not only be destructive of the cotton seed ofl industry, but it will enhance the price of a valuable article of food. It will enable a ring of lard speculators to "corner" swine's fat, and this is the object of the whole movement. Whether certain congressmen are paid to further this speculation we do not know, but since the success of the whisky ring, it would be difficult to believe that such is not the case. A writer in the Chicago Tribune puts the case very neatly. The growth of the cotton seed industry and its benefit to the country may be illustrated by a few facts. In 1879 only one-seventh of the available cotton of the United States was actually milled for oil, while during the last year with a far larger crop, it is estimated that two-thirds or three-fourths of the available seed has been thoroughly utilized. The price of cotton has been declining for years, like the price of wheat; but the loss to the planter in the price of cotton seems to have been more than made up to him in the steadily-increasing value of his seed; and this while our wheat dealers have felt the force of competition from India, Russia, and many other distant markets in the steadily decreasing price of our staple cereal; our cotton planters, on the other hand, have received profitable returns from their crops because of the value of cotton seed, although the price of the cotton alone has declined, as aforesaid.

The seed is raised in the south and the crude oil is manufactured in southern mills. But this crude material is refined chiefly in the north, there being extensive refineries in Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Providence, R. I., etc. Then the settlings or foots are used for soap by nearly the great soap manufacturers of the north; so that cotton seed is in no sense a sectional product. Twenty-five years ago Europe received large proportions of its annual supply of cotton from India, Brazil, Egypt and many other countries. Today it is said that the United States produces fourfifths of the world's supply of cotton. In 1881 it was said that the capacity of this country for producing cotton was so great that the state of Texas alone was capable of producing, if thoroughly cultivated, ten times as much cotton as the entire crop of the United States for that year. Taking all these things into consideration, is congress prepared to levy a tax which will benefit only a few speculators-which will destroy an industry that is national in its proportions-and which will increase the price to consumers of an article of prime

What Makes Criminals.

In discussing the causes and conditions of crime various opinions have been expressed. One man is certain that the drink habit is mainly responsible. Another says that it is the want of education, and a third thinks that it is the lack of religious instruction.

A correspondent of the Journal of Indus trial Education has been looking into the matter, and his conclusions deserve our serious consideration. In the Joliet prison he found 1,494 convicts. Of these 1,087 had a fair education, 129 being college graduates. Ninety per cent were educated men. Ninetyone per cent had been Sunday-school pupils and over eighteen per cent were total ab stainers. The most striking thing was that the convicts were without trades, only seven per cent having mastered a trade.

The writer calls attention to the fact that Chicago spends yearly $18.93 for each pupil in her public schools and $33 for each arrest, but the city has never spent a dollar to teach a boy a trade. London spends $385, 000 a year on her trade schools, and the question is asked:

May there not be some connection between this fact and the other fact that in 1883 there was in London but one arrest for each forty-eight of the population, while in New York during the same year there was one arrest to each twenty-one of the opulation; in Brooklyn, one to twenty-three; in St. ouis, one to twenty, and in Chicago, one to fifteen?

There is something in all this. The young man who is turned out upon the world well educated, temperate and with the advantages of religious instruction is in a very bad fix if he has no money and no trade by which he can earn an honest living. Under such circumstances he will either commit suicide or be drawn into a career of crime. It is different with the man who starts in life with a good industrial education. His services are in demand, and it is easier and less dangerous for him to earn money than it is to steal it. He may be almost illiterate and indifferent about religious matters, and fond of an occasional toddy, but the chances are that he will work at his trade and keen out of the penitentiary. Sentimentalists and visionary reformers may not be pleased with this way of putting it, but we may as well recognize the true state of affairs and go to work intelligently. If the poor young men of the land are not taught how to earn an honest living they will get what they want dishonestly.

THERE is one hundred and seven thou sand paupers in the city of London alone which shows that free-trade is a very good thing for England.

By Request. A free-trade paper, away out in Cali-fornia, has an article on "Wages and Cheapness," which is clipped and sent to us by one of our readers, who asks us to refute the arguments thereof. Some of the arguments are as follows:

The theory that high wages mean high cost of production is absurdly false. In 1880 the value of production is abstraly mass. In 1880 the value of materials represented four-fifths and wages only one-fifth of the total cost of manufactured articles. Clearly are ion with great natural advantages for the extraction of materials, such as those afforded by the concentration of gas, coal and iron in Pennvivania, or of coal, iron and cotton in Alal light pay very high wages and yet be able to pr noe cheaply.

But that is not all. So far from meaning high cost f production, high wages do not even mean high ost of labor. They mean intelligent, alert, ene getic labor, and that is always the most efficient and consequently the most economical. In this case, as in many others, the best is the cheapest. Instead of a country with high wages working at a isadvantage, it may be stated, as an almost ur ersal rule, that it works at an advant

This is one of the points that THE CON-STITUTION has insisted on, namely: that, while protection to American industries means good wages for workingmen, it does not necessarily mean high prices to consumers, and this is the history of protection in this country-high wages to workingmen-and home competition in the interes of consumers.

But protection has done more than this. It has stimulated invention until, today, improved American machinery has found a market all over the world.

market all over the world.

This principle has become one of the commonplaces of political economy. It is no longer denied, except by persons too ignorant to know what is going on around them. It was recognized a generation ago by John Stuart Mill, when he said: "The productive power of American labor is so great—its efficiency, combined with the favorable circumstances in which it is exerted, makes it worth so much to the purchaser, that the cost of labor is lower in America than in England."

Examples can be multiplied without number.
American cotton factorics employ from one-third to two-thirds as many operatives in proportion to the American cotton factorics employ from one-third to two-thirds as many operatives in proportion to the number of spindles as foreign ones. An English silk mill at Macclesfield employs 144 hands to do less than half the work that is accomplished by eighty hands in an American mill. The American operatives carn an average of $5.50 a week, and their lator is twice as cheap, measured by its re-sults, as that of the English operatives, who earn $2.25.

At Frankfort-on-the-Main it costs 21 cents a pa'r to make the uppers for ladies' gaiters. At Lynn it costs 11 cents. The wages at Lynn are about 59 a week, against $3.35 at Frankfort. The American manufacturer gets his labor twice as cheaply as the German, although the rate he pays for it is nearly German, although the rate he pays for it is nearly three times as high.

In Europe farm wages are low, but there is a man to every team, and there are a good many men laboriously grubbing with no team at all. On a callf smia wheat ranch one man will drive a dozen horses in a header or drawing a train of three heavily loaded wagons. He costs as much as three European laborers, but he eats no more than two and accomplishes the work of six. It is by hiring brains as well as muscle that California farmers, in spite of unjust taxation and twenty thousand miles of carriage, are enabled to undersell English farmers in their own market. ers in their own market.

This all very neatly put, and if it is true, it speaks volumes in favor of the principle of protection. It means high wages for the workingmen and low prices for consumers. That is the result of protection. What would be the result of free-trade? Simply this: Our industries would be destroyed and the wages of our workingmen would be reduced to nothing.

Southern Histories Under the Ban.

At a recent grand army convention in Wisconsin a committee reported in favor of the Blair educational bill and denounced the histories now used in some of the southern schools.

The committee's report declared that "it is time to cease toying with treason for policy's sake," and demanded histories that would educate our children in the spirit of loyalty and teach them that secession was treason. The report was adopted amidst great enthusiasm.

If it is the design of any set of republica partisans to force the public schools of the south to teach our children that their fathers were traitors there will be a lively racket. The people of this region are going to run their own schools and teach their own children in their own way. Any other course would not be worthy of American freemen.

We need more southern histories, or, at least, we need more elaborate works. The story of the war from our standpoint ought to be given to the world, and the rising generation of southerners should be made ac quainted with it. If there is anything that smacks of treason in this view of the matter the grand army men in Wisconsin and else where may go ahead and make the most of

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. The Campaign in Hancock.

SPIRTA, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—The political campaign for this year has not yet been exactly formulated. From the present outlook, however, we can say that, in all probability, Hon. Ity W. Duggan and Judge R. H. Lewis, our present ordinary, will be candidates for the next general assembly. Both of these gentlemen have been promordinary, will be candidates for the next general assembly. Both of these gentlemen have been prominent for a number of years in the politics of our county, and doubtless they will, if they make the race, meet with no opposition. Hancock will, it can be safely said, Jaccept whatever senator Baldyin county may select. We will send up a Cleveland delegation to the state presidential convention, also Gordon delegates to the gubernatorial convention. Colonel J. T. Jordan authorizes us to say that he will not be a candidate under any circumstances whatever for the judgeship of the Northern circuit. He also states in this connection that he "cannot conceive of any state of things that will induce him this year to run for any office in the gift of the people, or of the Georgia legislature, but that he is going to stay at home and practice law." If Judge R. H. Lewis will, instead of running for the legislature, be a candidate for the vacant judgeship of the Northern circuit. We state this exactly as we learn it from good authorities. Hon T. M. Hunt will op pose Solicitor General Howard before the next general assembly for the office of solicitor of the Northern circuit. Mr. Sidney Lewis, during his obsence in Washington city, will be assisted by Dr. J. T. Andrews in conducing the Ishmaclite.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION:-Please allow m sp ce in your paper to say that I will be a candidate before the next general assembly for solicitor-general of the Flint circuit. I make this announce ment not at the earnest solicitation of many friend and admirers, but in the exercise of my tional rights as a citizen of the state. Having no one to announce it for me, and knowing of no better way than this, I have decided to make my candidacy known through the newspapers, and will say if elected. I will greatly appreciate the honor, and will of course do my best to make a faithful prosecuting officer of the state. Respectfully, James F. Rockers.

AN ECCENTRIC SENATOR.

How Senator Edmunds Freezes Under the

Infinence of His Toddy. Washington Letter: He is amiable morning. He always takes a small glass of brandy at intervals from the time he gets up until noon. At noon he takes a bottle of wine. After that he is as unyielding as a rod of iron. He cannot be in-finenced or persuaded. He is stern and uncom-promising. However accommodating and ready to yield to the wishes of others in the morning, noth-ing can bend him after he has had hig midday wine. He is the only man I ever met whom wine wine. He is the only man I ever met whom wine would not mellow. So well is this peculiarity of his understood by his colleagues that they always avoid asking anything of him they think he might be reluctant to grant without first assuring themselves that he is not "in his cups." He always keeps a stock of the best brandy in his committee from, and when in conference on any measure where there is a disagreement to be settled he applies himself to the brandy at short intervals. After he has taken a contain any curt with a colleagues know that they the brandy at short intervals. After he has taken a certain amount his colleagues know that they might as well yield everything to him or adjourn. While the conference was being held to settle the differences between the house and senate on the anti-polygamy bill, the house conferees had an experience of this. Mr. Edmunds, who was one of the senate conferees, would meet them in the morning in the most conciliatory spirit, and they would think a settlement would be reached without difficulty. They would all be in high spirits. Edmunds would open a little closet and bring out a black bottle and closes.

would open a little closet and bring out a black bot-tle and glasses.

"Will you join me, gentlemen?" That was always "Will you join me, gentiement" that was an in his greeting. Generally they would decline, and he would say: "Well, I must take something myself." Every now and then during the conference he would repeat this, and each time he would come back to the council board more determined that the bill should be just as he wanted it. After several meetings of this sort the other conferces came to the conclusion that no agreement would ever be reached at that rate. During all the time not the least progress ras made.

Finally one of the members suggested that they meet earlier and adjourn before the Vermont sena-tor became rigid. The suggestion was readily adopted. After that they came together very early o'clock. They got along splendidly by this arrangement. The adamantine senator became a man of wax. A settlement was soon arranged and all parties were satisfied.

Any man who attempts to gain an influence over the wise old Vermonter by plying him with wine will find to his grief that he has made a mistake. Not many years ago there was a certain ger tleman who had a bill in the senate for his "reilef which he thought Edmunds was intending to op which he thought kaiminds was intending to op-pose. As a fact, however, that gentleman cared but little about it one way or the other. To remove this imagined barrier from the track of his bill the ben-eficiary bethought him to get Edmunds in a good humor and win him over. He invited the Vermonter to a champagne supper, and was careful to make champagne the principal feature of it. The senator was so friendly to him when he sat down that he began to think that the trouble and expense had been unnecessary, but the champagne was there, and to make a sure thing of it, he waited un-til the glasses had clinked many times and a fusitil the glasses had clinked many times and a fusi-lade af corks had pounded the ceiling. Then he broached the subject nearer his heart, his bill. It must be imagined what was his disappointment and chagrin to find his guest ready to antagonize him chagin to had his guest ready to attagonary at every point—an uncompromising, bitter, and re-lentless opponent; a man of adamant. This story is no fiction drawn for purposes of illustration. It elates an actual occurrence known to a number of

From the Texas Siftings. The following story is told of General Harney, when he was in command at Camp Verde rexas. He was an intensely dignified officer, and if there was one thing he detested more than another it was undignified baste. One evening, just as he was about to hold dr.ss parade, he perceived that he had forgotten his handkerchief, I and as the weather was very hot, he said to his orderly: "Go to my quarters, quick, and bring my hand

The orderly touched his cap and started for the quarters, several hundred yards distant. After he had proceeded a short distance, remembering that there was no time to lose, he broke into a trot.

"See that d—d scoundrel running as if the Indians were after him. If there is anything I hate it is to see a soldier running instead of marchin proporly. Here, my man," continued Harney to another soldier, "go after that man and tell him to ralk, d-n bim!

ralk, d—n him!"

The second soldier started after the first, but as the first one kept on running, the second one saw his only chance to deliver the message was to hurry up, so he, too, broke into a run. To say that Harney wore is to use a mild expression.
"Here, sergeant, go after that man and tell him if he don't stop running I'll hang him up by the The sergeant started out on a brisk walk, but as essor had a good start, he to in as hard as he could.

"If all the three scoundres ain't running like jack rabbits!" ejaculated Harney. I'll show 'em,' and tucking his sword under his arm, he started in pursuit as fast as he could run, but suddenly re membering his dignity, he came to a halt and walked stiffly back to the place where the dress parade was to come off.

Vincent Should be Pardoned.

In THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION We find the following:

"Ex-Treasurer Ike Vincent, of Alabama, is said to be dying of consumption in a convict cell near Birmingham. If this statement is true, why not turn him out. The object of V. neent's imprisonment is not to kill him, but to punish him by depriving him of his liberty for a certain term of years." This sentiment of THE CONSTITUTION will find esponsive echo in the heart of every Alabamia The people of this state have never indulged in the slightest morbid sentiment in regard to Isaac H. Vincent. The fact that he was a good fellow, of good connection, with many lovable traits of char acter and attractive social qualities, and that he we one of the most gallant of Alabama's soldiers, mak-ing a splendid military record in the twenty engage ments in which he participated; while these recol lections caused many citizens of the state profound sorrow that so bright a record should have bee blasted, yet they did not cause the people of Ala-bama to condone his fault or to question for one moment the stern justice that meted out to him the same punishment that would have been given to any other violator of the law under the same cir cumstances. But we do not believe there is a cir-zen in Alabama who would not regret to see the life of this unfortunate man shortened a day by undue severity on the part of the state. The ends of justice require no such sacrifice and no such stain to b placed on the humanity of Alabama. Vincent's fault would have been a crime justice. To kill him by the enforcement of his sentence is a crime against humanity.

tute further press prosecutions under the crimes act.

Mr. Cameron, member for the college division of Glasgow, radical, resuming debate on the address in reply to the queen's speech, moved an amendment censuring the absence from the speech of all reference of the distress prevailing in the highlands of Scotland.

Government speakers contended that the crofters districts were overpopulated, and that relief ought to be sought in emigration. They reproached the crofter members for opposing emigration.

Crofter speakers argued that the deer forests ought to be curtailed and the land given to the crofters. If that were done, they said, they would then favor emigration, if such a scheme were found necessary. After a lengthy discussion, Mr. Cameron's amendment was rejected by a vote of 194 to 133.

A Statement and a Denial.

VIENNA, February 21.—Count Kalnoky, minister of foreign affairs, has accepted Russia's overtures for a settlement of the Bulgarian question. He trusts that Italy and England will follow suit.

At the Russian embassy here it is denied that Russia has sounded Count Kalnoky regarding the collective declaration by the powers against Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria. An official dialoguetic step on the part of Russia is garding the collective declaration by the pow-ers against Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria. An official diplomatic step on the par of Russia is not expected until Bismarck is in position to notify the St. Petersburg cabinet that the pow-ers will support Russia's demands affecting Prince Ferdinand. If the powers should re-quire further explanations from Bussia before deciding, the czar's government would con-sider the negotiations as without result.

What Blaine Would Have Done.

From the New York Herald,

The possibility of Blaine meant the ascendancy of daring, uncertainty, adventure, inventive genius, the policy of dazzling government by light-ning flashes; pottering over Chili and Peru, and those lazy, half-clothed, greasy communities near the equator, who live on bananas, doze in the sand and think they are republics; governing by sensa tion, one surprise following another, and resulting either in marvelous triumphs or ignominious, irre-trievable ruin. This was what we were to have in Blaine, and the fascination involved in such a pol icy of fancy and caprice, this wooden nutmer B ism, was among the sources of his strength. We partism, was among the sources of his strength. We shall have, on the contrary, in republican policy, promises of good behavior, serene common sense, anthracite rather than petroleum, care about the finances, no sentiments grievances over suffering nationalities, no Cuban revolutions or annexations, protection intensified. lavish appropriations, and no philosophical illu-sions that will disturb vested rights. About Tracheoton
From the London Truth. Tracheotomy has nothing to do with cutting out the larnyx or any such formidable maneur. It is merely making a little notch in the wind; and putting in a silver tube, through which patient breathes, instead of through his mouth. In grown-up people it is very often done without chic roform or anything of that sort, and, as an opera-tion, it is hardly ever directly fatal. I myself know a man who tried to cut his throat twenty years ago, but did not do it secundum artem. He has worn one of these tubes ever since, and few people are any the wiser.

THE TRIP TO FLORIDA

Departure of the Presidential Party From Washington,

No Stop Made So Far-The People Crowding to the Railroads—An Invitation From Charleston.

Washington, February 21.—The presidential party left Washington at 11:45 o'clock this morning by the Pennsylvania and Atlantic coast lines for a short visit to the Sub-Tropical exposition at Jacksonville, Fig. The party consisted of the President and Mrs. Cleveland, consisted of the President and Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, Colonel and Mrs. D. S. Lamont, and Sinclair, the presi-dent's valet, and Mrs. Cleveland's maid. They ward a special train composed of an engine. dent's valet, and airs. Civersand's maid. They used a special train composed of an engine, baggage car and drawingroom car. The latter car is elegantly furnished and appointed, and was provided with everything that could add was provided with everything that could be to the ease and comfort of the distinguished passengers during their long journey. The train will make its first stop at Savannah, Ga, where it will arrive at 8 o'clock to

The party will remain there an hour, and will take a drive over the principal thorough-fares. They will arrive at Jacksonville at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, a visit be made to the exposition and a reception be held by the president and Mrs. Cleveland in the evening. The next by, Thursday, will be spent in St. Augustine, where another reception will be held. The start for home will be made Friday morning, and the train will make no stops except such as are necessary for coaling, etc. Colonel Lamont said the president had prepared no speeches for the trip, and did not except the start of the start pared no speeches for the trip, and did not expect to make any.

The presidential train was made up of two cars, the Pullman "Newport," and a combined smoking and baggage car. The train was drawn by engine 303 of the Pennsylvania railroad. Before the hour of departure, Secretary and Mrs. Endicott, Mrs. Fairchild, Secretary Vilas, and Postmaster-General Dickinson, who came to see the party off, had reached the station. About twenty minutes to 12 o'clock, Colonel Lamont and his wife drove up, preceding the president but a few minutes and took their places in the car. As the president was about to pass through the gate he was greeted by Senator Ransom, who detained him in conversation for a few minutes, in the midst of a little crowd that had clustered about the grating.

detained him in conversation for a few minutes, in the midst of a little crowd that had clustered about the grating.

Entering the enclosure the president stopped to chat with Mr. Richard Crowley, of New York, and exchanged salutations with a few other persons who were in waiting. Ho was looking very well, dressed in a frock coat and dark pantaloons and wearing a light weight overcoat. On his left arm he carried Mrs. Cleveland's long mantle.

Mrs. Cleveland was attired in a dark green dress, trimmed with light fur, and wore a closely fitting fawn-colored jacket. Taking their places in the Pullman car the party supplied themselves with newspapers and the train started quickly at nine minutes to twelve o'clock on its long trip down the coast. Besides the president and wife, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, and Colonel Lamont and wife, there were on the train General Manager Myers of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and Mr. Albert Reed, representing the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad company, who will take charge of the train when it reaches Richmond, the northern terminus of that line. The presidential train was the second section which started at 10.57 were a number of ion of the southern fast mail. On the first section or the southern last mail. It is stated this evening on good authority that President and Mrs. Cleveland have expressed a strong desire to visit Charleston in the tour on their present southern trip, and that if necessary arrangements can be made they will spend a few hours there on their way back from Florida.

train with the presidential party en route for Florida reached Elba station at 3:20 p. m., but made no stop. As the time of its arrival was not generally known, few people were at the station and there was no demonstration. The president and Mrs. Cleveland stood on the rear platform of the train during the fifteen minutes required to pass through the western portion of the city, past the union depot, and over the bridge across James river. ous points along the route small groups of people assembled and saluted the president and his wife by dofing their hats, waving their handkerchiefs and giving an occasional cheer, which manifestations of respect were graciously acknowledged. The train stopued on the south side of the river for five minutes to change engines, and then proceeded on its southern journey. But for the fact that no public announcement had been made with regard to the movements of the train, there would have been quite a demonstration, as many people, after learning that the president had passed, expressed regret at not having known it. The fast mail train, which preceded the presidential train by about twenty minutes, conveyed a large number of distinguished persons, also en route to Florida. ous points along the route small groups of minutes, conveyed a large number of distinguished persons, also en route to Florida.

The run to Petersburg was made in fortg minutes. Quite a large crowd had gathered at the depot, and as the train pushed slowly along the president and Mrs. Cleveland appeared on the rear platform, and were greeted enthusiastically, both bowing and smiling, acknowledging the compliment. knowledging the compliment. No stop was made, and there was no incident of any notes.

WILMINGTON DISAPPOINTED.

WILMINGTON N. C., February 21.—The presidential special arrived here at 10:30 p. m., without accident or delay. The train stopped at the old union depot, and did not come into the city. After a change of engines and a thorough examination of the trucks, it started for the south. It was understood that the train would come into the city to the regular depot, and the large crowd which assembled there were greatly disappointed. Superintendent Devine had charge of the train from Weldon to Charleston.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., February 21.—The news of the departure of the presidential party from Washington today greatly stimulated the enthusiasm of the people, and the work of preparation is being pushed by the various committees. The programme of entertainment includes a street procession, a visit to the Subtropical exposition and a thorough inspection of its attractions, and a public reception by the presidential party at a hotel in the evening.

Thousands of strangers are in the city, and every arriving train swells the crowd. All of the hotels and the boarding houses are jammed, and the committee on entertainment is providing for the accommodation of the visitors in the private houses of the citizens. The president will receive the grandest popular ovation ever known in Florida. Rain felf here nearly all day, but clear weather is promised for tomorrow.

CRADLE SONG.
Darling, lay your tired head down,
And take a trip to Sleepy-town.
Pick up all the dreams you see And bring them home to tell to me.

Dream you're a honey bee poised on a rose. Dream von're a lily fair, stately and white, Folding your petals to sleep all the night.

Dream you're a twinkling star up in the sky. But don't stay there long, my pet, stars are so high. Dream you're a violet, hiding your head, Safe from the chilly winds, in mossy bed. Dream you'r a pearly shell, deep in a cave, Nestling by corals and washed by the wave. Dream you're a butterfly, golden and gay, Wooing the sweetest flowers all the long day. Dream you're a silver bell ringing the hours, To waken the fairles that sleep in the flowers.

The Whistling Woman.

From the Philadelphia News.

Mrs. Alice J. Shaw, whose whistling has within a year or two become a popular feature at receptions and fashionable entertainments in New York, is a widow with four children. She was thrown on her own resources for their support and education, and tried whistling. It has brought her a handsome-return. The notes of music for wifitting as they appear on paper would mystify an ordinary musician, but when translated, through the ruby lips of a handsome woman they become better anderstood.

It is not every dramatic star who revels in the luxury of having a full-pledged minister of the gospel as his advance agent, but Milton Nobles is the exception which proves the rule. A tall, fine-looking gentleman, whose flowing, snow-white locks indicate the shady side of fifty—such is Rev. J. Duke Murray, a man who will attract attention anywhere. And he it is who tells the usual fairy tales about the business of the attraction he represents.

This reverend gentleman is deservedly popular with the newspaper boys throughout the country, and the result is that he is frequently made, the butt of innocent jokes purporting to be sketches of his career. That career has been a remarkable one. It would take several pages of THE CONSTITUTION to tell the whole story, so that will have to be saved for use as an obituary; but the story of the beginning of his theatrical career, as told by himself, is rather interesting.

Murray is a native of the mountain regions of Murray is a native of the mountain regions Murray is a native of the mountain regions of Kentucky—he was born in Rowan county, but keeps this fact a religious secret—and in early life he divided his time between making moonshine whisky on week days and preaching on Sunday. In Kentucky his eloquence was proverbial. He was the famous "boy preacher" before the day of "Boy" Preacher Harrison, and people went miles to listen to his eloquence. In terseness of expression and talking straight from the shoulder, he was the pioneer, and the Sam Jones and Sam Small style is but an imitation of his.

One striking characteristic of his was the ability he displayed in telling wild and weird fairy tales. The snakes he had killed would make Georgia snake editors blue with envy. They were of all sizes, shapes and colors—as terrible of aspect as were ever seen even by a Chicago politician. And his other experiences in the dark and bloody ground were equally startling.

It was shortly after he had entered upon his stage career that Mr. Nobles met Murray. The reverend geutleman was seated in a Somerset, Kentucky, hotel, his feet gracefully hanging over the top of the hotel counter, while the in a Somerset, Kentucky, hotel, his feet gracefully hanging over the top of the hotel counter, while the rest of him was recilining in a chair a yard or so distant. He was regaling a group of Kentuckians with some of his choicest tale. Nobles listened in mute astonishment; his astonishment grew to wonder; his wonder to admiration, and he resolved then and there to get Murray to sing the praises of his show if his services could possibly be secured. He made Murray's acquaintance, and the "mash" was mutual. It was Murray's love for Nobles which prompted him to consider the actor's proposition, and it is this love which has kept them together all dusing these years. It is another ease of Damon and Pythias.

P. S.—It was during the moonshine portion of his career that the Rev. J. Duke acquired the truly-American habit of punishing whisky cocktails.

Mr. Bosard was talking about the work of the Young Men's Christian association, and he said: "Norwood claims the honor of completing the first Y. M. C. A. in Georgia. THE THROWER LIBEL SUIT.

Another Man Sued for Libel About the Same Article.

Francis Story was in Atlanta Monday. Story will be remembered as a prohibitionist, during the last campaign, and as being connected in some vague general fashion with the little prohibition paper, the Southern Star.

Monday evening Balliff Martin, in Judge Landrum's court, hunted the city from Dan to Bersheeba for the festive journalist.

But he didn't catch the journalist.

The warrant was for libel, and sworn out by Mr. J. G. Thrower. It is understood that the suit is about the same article for which Mr. C. D. Barker is being sued.

It will be remembered that Mr. Barker has always disclaimed the authorship of the article in question, but, so far as is known, has never told who the author is. It is known that Mr. Story was connected with the paper at that time, and the idea of Mr. Thrower seems to be that Story is the author.

It was learned from the bailiff that Mr. Story reached Chattaneoga safely, and that in all probability the suit will lie idle until Mr. Story's next visit to Atlanta.

STRUCK OUT!

The Atlanta Baseball Club Falls to Materialize.

Subscriptions, the Club Will Not be Organized—The Status of Affairs.

The Atlanta baseball club of 1888 never saw first base.

In plain English, it looks very much as if Atlanta people will have to wait until some other year before having an opportunity to see Southern league baseball.

The Southern league held a special meeting at Chattanooga on Monday, and at that meeting the delegate from Atlanta announced that the attempt to organize a club in this city had proved futile, and that Atlanta would have to be counted out. This announcement was made upon instructions from a meeting held in this city on Monday morning.

of the different efforts to get Atlanta into the Southern league this year is well known. The league, as now constituted, consists of four clubs—New Orleans, Birmingham, Memphis and Charleston. These clubs are in excellent cities are so far apart that the railroads wil swallow all the profits. It was with a desired to break the long jump from Birmingham to Charleston that the league members were anxious to see a club in Atlanta, and several meetings were held here for the purpose of arousing the enthusiasm of lovers of the game.

To the casual observer the conditions seemed most favorable. It looked as if everybody in the city wanted baseball, but nobody wanted to assume the responsibility of putting in a club. In a place the size of Atlanta burdens of this kind always fall upon a select few, and in this particular case the few thought they had had enough baseball experience to last them a lifetime. The solicitations of the base ball men from other cities did not, therefore meet with anything like a hearty response.

A START MADE. After several visits to the city, the delegate from the league did succeed in inducing a lew well known lovers of the game to say they would take hold of the matter and see what could be done.

At first the outlook was quite bright. It seemed as if everybody was anxious to see base-ball here, and as if almost everybody would take an interest in the club. Subsequent events proved the last supposition a most erroneous one. Men who had talked of subscribing largely to the stock failed to respond, and the project fell through simply from a lack of inancial support.

WHAT WILL BE DONE?
That is an interesting question.
The clubs now in the Southern league are very anxion to have Atlanta a member. Very many Atlantians are anxious to see basebal here. It is true that it is now very late in the season, but it does seem that even now At lanta ought to brace up and take her stand with the prominent cities of the south. If there is any practical baseball manager looking for a really good investment, he ought to be able to find it here. Baseball will pay in Atlanta-there can be little doubt of that. A club will receive the hearty support of all enterprising citizens. With arrangements which can be made there will be no necessity for an can be made there will be no necessity for an outlay of more than $3,000. This will carry the club through the season, and if the finances are judiciously managed, the end of the season will find a snug sum in the treasury.

Atlanta ought to have a club!

Governor Gordon and Staff Leave by the 7:15 Train Last Night.

Train Last Night.

The union passenger depot presented a fively appearance last night about seven o'clock. It was crowded with people who were on mind to see Governor Gordon, the members of his staff and many friends off for the forest city.

The governor and his party went down in a special car, which was in charge of Colonel A. J. West, his excellency's popular chief of staff. The following ladies and gentlemen occupied seats in the handsome special car: Governor Gordon and wife, Colonel A. J. West, chief of staff; Colonel Seaton Grantland, of Griffin: Colonel W. H. THE ARRIVAL IN MACON.

MACON, Ga., February 21.—[Special.]—The Central train rolled out of Atlanta in two sections tonight. In the first section was the governor's party and in the rear section were many Atlantians all enroute to Savannah. Among the passengers on the two sections were civilians as well as military men. They were all going to the Jasper mounment unveiling and they were all happy. The governor, Hon John B. Gordon, occupied a section in the sleeper on the first section, and he and his party had a pleasant ride from Atlanta to the central city. When the train left Atlants it was dark, but the ride was through a section of country with which the governor has been familiar for years. He had no desire to look out of the windows; neither did those with him. The governor chatted with his friends. The ride was a pleasant one. The governor, recognizing the friendship of the Macon people for him, never became weary, and with a pleasant smile kept his seat until the train rolled under the central city carshed. At Macon the train was met by a large delegation of citizens, and in addition to the citizens was a delegation of military. This military was the Macon Volunteers, who need no introduction to the people of Georgia. Years before the war this military company was organized and when the war came on the company went to the front. Through the great struggle they bore their part, and tonight they are the happy escorts of the governor from the central city to the forest. When the colonies, which are now states, were struggling for independence, the Jasper Greens and the Chatham Artillery. These are two of the oldest military companies in the southern states. BIRDS OF PASSAGE.

MR. CARL DAYID, Cincinnati: "Atlanta is getting a reputation as an educational center, and everywhere I go I hear about the excellent system of public schools you have. It was my pleasure to visit them yesterday, in company with some Atlanta friends, and what I saw convinced me of the justness of the boasts of Atlanta's citizens. My main idea was to see how the children are taught in the primary grades. The system in yourse is about the primary grades. The system in vogue is about the same as that which obtains in the public schools of Cincinnati. I have five children attending school there. I intend to remove to Atlanta early in the fall, and will bring my family with me. I have just bought a lot and intend building a residence. I am satisfied Atlanta is the best place for me to have my headquarters."

MR. JAMES LOOMIS, Nashville, Tenn.: "I am now using a pocket kuife that has been in the family fifty odd years. My father had it when I was born, and I have had if at least eighten years. It is use-ful yet, and I expect it to last me all my life."

I hope he will, for it will not be possible to want or fee him. It will not be possible for me to act for him. It will be necessary for me to hold court at Decatur next Saturday."

Mr. J. Eldridge, Indianapolis: "I have had a delightful visit to your city. I think one of the best institutions you have is the chess and checker club. The room is an inviting resort. It is well furnished and is always comfortable. I wa frequent visitor to it and I never failed to m pleasant and courteous gentlemen. I did not make so good a score in the checker tournament as I expected, but I was not in good health and could not do my best. I shall always remember Atlanta as the most hospitable and delightful city I have ever visited."

A CITIZEN OF BUCKTEAD: "The average citizen of Buckhead is on his metal and there is considerable friction. There is no small degree of excitement in anticipation of the first of March, the day when the stock law will go into effect. This law was passed by the last legislature. There is a good deal of oiter feeling over it. A few of the unreconstructed stock law men chafe under the idea that after having voted against the law in this district, the legislature should pass it over their protest They prefer that their stock should roam at will over other people's land. The cattle cannot do this if their neighbors have to build sences. Speaking seriously, trouble is imminent in this district. If wise counsels do not prevail the law will be defied. This, in all probability, will lead to fighting and bloodshed. This Constitution should urge upon the people to uphold the law."

MR. JOHN W. RYCKMAN, of Kansas City MR. JOHN W. RYCKMAN, of Kansas City:

men of the city have taken hold of the enterprise with a will, and they are sure to make it a grand success. They have already raised one hundred thousand dollars in cold cash, and have not asked anybody outside the city for a cent. That looks fike business, don't it? The Chronicle and Evening News are cities look to their laurels. You just watch Augusta."

MR. DUNCAN MCAFEE, of Birmingham "I am glad to see old Atlanta once more. I hardly knew her, though. She has almost grown out of my recollection, and I haven't been away so very either. I understand you've got 75,000 people either. I understand you've got 75,000 people here now. That's right—you'll have more than that soon. I am coming back to help swell the population, if I can find a place big enough for my pusiness. I'm looking around now."

MISSISSIPPI LEGISLATION.

Debating a Bill to Impose Taxation on the Railroads.

Railroads.

Jackson, Miss., February 21.—[Special.]—
Both houses held night sessions last evening.
The senate passed only a number of local bills, and today a good many more, among them house bills providing for a reduction of ten per cent in the present price of public printing, with an amendment regarding the local acts. A large number of bills were introduced and referred, among them providing for the publication by the state of the proceedings of the state horticultural society; to prevent judges giving peremptory charges to justices. The senate bill requiring separate but equal accommodations for the two races on railroad trains passed the senate.

passed the senate.

The house spent last night's session and today in discussing the bill of Magguder, of Claiborne, proposing by stringent measures to regulate labor contracts between landlords and tenants.

proposing by stringent measures to regulate labor contracts between landlords and tenants. Its provisione were severe for lithe breach of contracts, and againsi those enticing laborers under contract away from their employers. After the adoption of many amendments, substitutes, etc., the whole business was killed by an overwhelming vote.

The Wilson senate bill, proposing to repeal all exemptions now contained in the railroad charters as regards immunity from taxation, is the special order in the house tomorrow, and from day to day until disposed of. Since the passage of this bill by the senate, a terrible protest has been raised throughout the country, not only by the railroads, but by corporations and capitalists of all descriptions, who denounce it as a repudiation measure of the worst kind, an outrageous breach of faith and calculated not to only bring into disrepute the credit of the state abroad, but to do infinite harm and injustice to the credit of Mississippi business men in the markets of the world. This view is held by many of the best citizens of the state, who have in various ways protested against the passage of the bill by he house. The friends of the bill, on the other hand, claim that these exemptions aimed at are not only in plain violation of the state constitution, which declares that taxation shall be equal, and that the property of all corporations for pecuniary profit shall be subare not only in plain violation of the state constitution, which declares that taxation shall be equal, and that the property of all corporations for pecuniary profit shall be subject to taxation the same as that of individuals, but that the acts containing these exemptions were obtained by the corporations with the full knowledge that they were in direct antagonism to the organic law of the state. It is further claimed that when a legislaturo, the agents of the state, do an unconstitutional act, thereby exceeding the authority vested in them by the people, that a subsequent legislature is not, either in equity or morals, bound by it, and it is the plain duty of the agents of the people to nullify this unwarranted and unauthorized act of their predecessors, and place these millions of dollars worth of railroad property upon the tax rolls upon the same footing as that of individuals. The fight over this measure will be hot, and no one can at this writing foretell the result.

down since the time of its sale. Previously to its sale he had been invited many times to become a member of the "combine," but declined to do so because he did not think his stock was rated high enough, as compared with that of other companies in the "combine." So, rather than come in at the amount they were rated, which was $700,000, his company sold out completely to John E. Searles for $325,000, which was $25,000 below par value. Havemeyer & Elder were entered in the "combine" at between $16,000,000 and $16,000,000, and DeCastro & Bonner a little over $3,000,000; Madison & Meeker, of Jersey City, at $5,500,000; Oxford at $750,000, $20,000; Colonel Bliss asked witness upon what valuation of the capital stock was he to receive $700,000 for his company's transfer. He said the basis of $60,000, but the "combine," seeing that they could not induce every refinery in the country to join them, reduced the capital stock to $45,000,000, and his allowance was reduced proportionately. uced proportionately. Lee, chairman of the executive committee of Reading railroad employes, was before the congressional investigating committee this morning. Lee desired to be sworn. In reply to Superintendent Sweigart's testimony charging him with being employed by railroad company in October last and paid by them to strike, Lee said that voucher he signed in October of "special services" at Pottsville was for work done while in the regular employ of the company, a part of work being done in September. He had, for part of time specified, been engaged in finding out temper of men, but he never was in pay of company while engaged in business of organization.

Canadian Catarth Cure Co.:
Gentlemen—My wife was a great sufferer with Catarth for over two years. She has been a little troubled ever since she was a child with the disease. About two years ago we were in Mississippi, and while there she was taken down with catarthal fever, we had three of the best physicians we could get. They broke the fever and left her the worst case of catarth of the head I ever saw. Her nose ran profusely, and for a year I despaired of her ever getting well.—I tried several doctors and the y could hoat our her, and used every catarth remedy I could hear of. I spent over $50 the past year for remedies and all to us effect. At has it became so offensive that you could hardly remain where she was.

I bought the large bottle, and before she had used all of the bottle she was entirely well, and her health fully restored, and now does more work than any woman I know. She used the medicine over six months ago, and there has not been the slightest return or the disease. I hope everybody, that has catarrh may find you and be cured. I am, a traveling man and have told a great many of our wonderful cure. Yours truly,

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, February 21.—The stock market NEW YORK. February 21.—The stock market was a little more active today, and decidedly stonger, but all interest in speculation was monopolized by half a dozen stocks, the general list being extremely dull and featureless throughout. Interest again centered in Richmond and West Point stocks, and Mr. Sulley's friends stated that he would not resign the presidency, and the members of the directory who are favorable to him have been the largest buyers of the stock, and the largest buying orders today were executed by brokers who usually do Mr. Sulley's buying. A sharp contract for control is ex-Solley's buying. A sharp contract for control is ex-pected in some quarters. Preferred stock was the special feature of the day, and its advance was very marked. Sharp advances were made by St. Paul and Jersey Central, which sprang into activity in the last hour. The first prices were generally ½ and ½ per cent lower than yesterday's closing figures, and in the first hour a future decline of from ½ to % per cent were sustained, but Richmond and West Point stock took the lead, and the drift of prices were changed, while the market sank into its usual dul the market steadily advanced, and toward the close the upward tendency became more marked, being strongest at the close, which was very dull, but firm, at about the best prices of the day. Almost everything is fractionally higher to-night, except for Richmond and West Point pre-ferred, which gained % 26, and common 1%. The heavy borrowing demand still continues, and the covering of the outstanding shorts would materially advance prices. Total sales, 123,000 shares. Exchange dull but steady at 4851/2@487. Mo easy at 2@2½, closing offered at 2. Subtreasury bal-ances: Coin $129,975,000; currency, $12,258,000. Gov-ernments dull but steady: 4s 126%; 4½ 107%. State

NEW YORK, February 21—C. L. Green & Co., in their report on cottonitutures today, say: Some local trading took place, but there was practically no new business and a very stupid market throughout—indeed, fluctuations amounted to only a point or two, and at the close rates were much the same as last evening with the tone dull, no one caring to make any fresh deal until after the holiday. The outside was without special significance, the estimate of was without special significance, the estimate of Neill Brothers at 6,350,000 bales having been discounted yesterday, and the crop movement running about in accord with estimates. The south continues to offer freely at 10% c laid down in Liverpool, counted yesterday, and the crop movement running about in accord with estimates. The south continues to offer freely at 10½ laid down in Liverpool, but finds a very indifferent response.

NEW YORK, February 21.—[Special.]—From Hubbard, Price & Co., through John S. Ernest: The market has been spiritless. Spots in Liverpool were quoted steady with futures unchanged. The good business in Manchester is having its effect upon the Liverpool market, which showed additional strength during the day, but upon our market this produced no effect. Prices opened at one point above the close and fluctuated one point only. Exceeding duliness prevails, and, while some buying by good purchasers can be noted, was without influence, operators being listless. The stagnation is, however, tending to increase the sentiment in lower prices, and some of the bolder small ring traders are putting out a limited short interest. This is very nervous, however, and will specilly cover on any symptom of improvement. The interior movement is rather large—acting against an advance, but port receipts show a falling off. The room feeling is very undecided, and the policy of swaiting developments is the cause of the lack of activity. This quiet cannot be expected to continue long.

The exchange will be closed tomorrow—Washington's birthday.

Features of the Speculative Movement Grain and Produce. Special to The Constitution. Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, February 21—There was a continuation of the slow and uninteresting deals in the grain pits on 'change today. All the markets were largely controlled by a prominent operator. Wheat opened this morning where it closed last night, and closed about where it opened. The range for the session was inside 3/c, and the pit was dull at the best and at times lifeless. The operator mentioned was a buyer at 80/c for May, and the price conse-quently kept slightly above that price most of the Corn was manipulated largely by the same open tor. This trader walked into the pit occasionally and told the crowd to put down all the corn they wanted to sell at 51%c. His agents were sellers when it touched 51½c. Any natural action of the market was impossible under the circumstances. Oats were not traded in to any great extent, and the fluctuations were within a small range, prices exhibiting no material change.

For a time the chief interest was in the provision crowd, where a bear raid was in progress. Mess pork opened at $14.25, and was pounded down to $14.00. There was a general selling of pork by com-mission houses and speculators and an indisposition of buyers to take hold except after a decline of 25c It is belieded in certain quarters that the largest holders have unloaded and retired from the mar-ket, letting it take care of itself. On the other hand, it was noticed that parties who have bought liberally in all the recent breaks were in the market at $14.00, and purchased nearly 10,000 barrels at $11.00 for May. May closed at a decline of 10c from yesterday's last sales. Lard opened at 5a724c, but closed 2½c above inside figures. Trading was considerably lighter. Short ribs broke 10c under free offerings by a big scalper.

The following spicy letter was Teceived at the executive office yesterday:

ATLANTA! February 21st, '88.—Governor J. B. Gord on —bear sir—I hope you will not think metrisumptions, but if the facis are correctly stated in yesterday's Evening Journal of this city, I for one, do not think that the boy Lewis Moore, of Quitman county, should hang.

The man Wright should have been at home with his wife and family, or had his wife and family, or had his wife with him, and not been interfering between lovers. Now just think of it. If you had carried some young lady to an entertainment before marriage, and some married man that should have stepped in and walked off with her, for the purpose, perhaps, of enticing the girl to her ruin, as Wright no doubt was, do you not thank that you would have been justified in killing him, or trying to? Wright, perhaps, did the first shooting. At any rate it was a most exasperating case, and the poor boy, Lewis Moore, is to be ritted even if he killed Wright in a moment of passion, which doubtless he did. He should have mercy extended to him or an example should be set. There are too many such exase in which married men leave their wives and family and meddle where they have no business, when they should be with their families or have their wives with them. I have no wish to conflict with or to criticize the fedgment of your escened excellency, but as an humble citizen. If the case has been book proposed to the poor doomed your gens, and it is no harm I not have to give his life for defending his own personal rights and privileges, and I should be pica ed indeed if your excellency would now personal rights and privileges, and I should be pica ed indeed if your excellency would now personal rights and privileges, and I should be pica ed indeed if your excellency would now personal rights and privileges, and it is and for the life imprisonment. Very respectfully and tryly,

One of the grandest dramatic spectacles that will be produced here this season will be presented by the Charles L. Andrew's minuet carnival company on Friday and Saturday evening next. This is unquestionably one of the leading spectacular attractions on the road today. The great dramatic company of twenty-eight people is led by the handsome and romantic actor. Harold Linson, who gives a perfect interpretation of the R issian messenger and hero.

Associatiated with him in the distinguished emotional actress, Ethel Douglass, the popular young leading actress, Miss Laura Reming that season heading support to Clara Morris), the two favorite comedians, Punch Robinson and George Bouler. These are some of the leading people of this creat dramatic company. New specialties of a refined and brilliant order have been introduced this season, notable among which are the three wonderful "Mauvels" in their grotesque dances, and the Shattuck brothers in their latest novelty, ariel posturing on the high perch.

The drama itself is well known here, and the audience will undoubtedly be a large one.

WHAT THEY SAY. Interviews With the Committee Appointed to Negotiate for the Customhouse. The day before yesterday Mayor Pro Tena Collier appointed a committee of six, consisting of three councilmen and three citizens, to enter into negotiations with the United States government with a view to the purchase of the customhouse by the city for a city hall.

A representative of The Constitution asked the members of the committee about it yesterday.

Hon. George Hillyer—I have not thought much about it, but, speaking in a general way, it might be a good thing for the city to make the purchase, if she can do so at a low enough figure. It is better to buy a ready-made building, if it answers the purpose, than to build

THE THOMASVILLE COLLEGE.

The Governor Draws His Warrant for the Special Appropriation of $3,500.

Special Appropriation of $3,500.

Yesterday Governor Gordon drew his warrant upon the state treasury for the special appropriation of $3,500 for the branch college building at Thomasville, to enable the trustees thereof to complete or finish the building. In accordance with the law, it was paid to Hon. Lamar Cobb, treasurer of the University of Georgia, for the trustees of the Thomasville college.

The special act of the last session of the general assembly under which this appropriation is made does not authorize the governor to draw his warrant for the money appropriated, until furnished with an itemized estimate from the board of trustees of the Thomasville college, showing that the amount appropriated is sufficient to complete and furnish the building and to enclose the grounds, the work to be done in workmanlike style and in a substantial and durable unanner.

This itemized estimate was submitted in proper form to the governor yesterday, before the warrant was drawn.

Governor Gordon Passed the following order yesterday:

"Tomorrow, the 22d, being a legal holiday, it is ordered that the offices of the executive department be closed on that day."

The Governor issued an order to the superintendent of the Muscogee county chaingang yesterday pardoning Ella Brown alias Ella Clarke, a colored girl, and directing him to release her from custody.

Ella Brown is only eighteen years of age. At the December term, 1887, of Muscogee superior court she was convicted of the offense of abandoning her child. She was sentenced to the chaingang for six month and has been confined there since the 7th day of last December. Her child is only a few months old, and whilst the evidence shows that she is technically guilty it also develops the fact that it was her intention to compel the father of the child to provide for it. She herself was unable to do so because of bad health. She will take her child to Mississippi and her father, who lives in that state, will take care of her and her baby.

N. R. Fowler. Auctioneer—122 Beautiful Lots 122—On Capitol Avenue and Other Streets at Auction Wednesday, February 29, Commencing at 11 A. M.—Grand Free Dinner for All—Every Lot a Gem and Covered With a Beautiful Grove—Elevated and Overlooking the City.

These lots are just 300 yards outside the city limits, from brick sidewalk and paved street. This saves city taxes and assessments. They are accessible by two street car lines and by a well macadamized thoroughfare, Capitol avenue, which is one of the leading residence streets of Atlanta. The Metropolitan street car line, via Georgia avenue and Grantpark, crosses Capitol avenue about three cighths of a mile this side of this property, making a pleasant walk on paved sidewalks and macadamized street. The South Pryor street us line passes about 300 yards in front of these lots on its way to and from Henderson's store, where Pryor street and Capitol avenue intersect each other and cross the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad and Atlanta and Hawkinsville railroad. All of the lots are covered with a beautiful oak and hickory grove and located on a high point overlooking Atlanta and giving a fine view. Indied, these twenty-one acres, subdivided as per plat, with its elevation, pretty shades, excellent drainage, pure air and water and destrable surroundings, is not equaled by any tract of land so near the city limits. Every one of the 122 lots lies well, and are now ready for occupancy as a home. All prudent men, rich or poor, try to secure a bome. To many persons there lots give special advantages, as follows:

1. They are so high and well drained, air and water so pure, they give every assurance of healthrulness.

2. They are outside the city limits and the taxes are only 55 cents on the hundred dollars, instead of are only 55 cents on the brindred dollars, instead of $2.15, as in the city.

3. While they are thus free from city taxes, they are just as convenient and accessible as if in many parts of the city.

4. They are very conveniently located for those persons having business in the southern portion of Atlanta, whether in stores or shops or railroad offices or elsewere.

5. They are especially convenient to the mechanics and employes of the oleomargarine factory, glass works and the E. T. V. & Ga. R. R. shops, all of which are very near.

5. They are especially convenient to the mechanics and employes of the oleomargarine factory, glass works and the E. T. V. & Ga. R. R. shops, all of which are very near.

6. There was never better outlook for growth and permanent prosperity on the south side than at present. We have lately sold adjacent property to Indiana capitalists, and to local capitalists a large tract on McDonough road quite a mile away. Land on the Central railroad and at West End is on a regular boom, and the Atlanta and Hawkinsville railroad has been completed and is now in operation, and it will be but a short time before this road, with the E. T. V. & G. R. R., will erect a depot at the lunction of Pryor street and Capitol avenue, just beyond this property, where all passenger trains will stop. The B Nal Erith orphan asylum, representing the charity and liberality of the Jews of several states, at a cost of many thousand of dollars, is located on Washington street, a very short distance from these lots, and the contract has already been let for, the cruciton of a handsome building that will greatly enhance the value of property in this vicinity. Georgia avenue is being opened as great wide boulevard from West End, crossing the southern portion of the city to Grant park. The Atlanta Laud and Improvement company, with remarkable enterprise and indgment, are purchasing, grading and otherwise improving tract after trace on this side and have already built many beautiful homes on their property. Grant park itself is looming up as the most attractive spot about the city. A perfect village has sprung up in the vicinity of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad shops. This was coasidered in the country a few years ago. Land then worth a mere song is today bringing thousands per acre. So, whether we look towards the city on the north, to the pretty suburban homes on the west, in every direction around these lots signs of progress are many and significant.

NO MUSTER TODAY

The Street Parade of the Military Companies Postponed.

The Officers Decide That it is Too Wet—An Idea of Captain Milledge's—The Prize Drills—Competing Companies.

Owing to the inclement weather, Washingowing to the inciement weather, washing-ton's birthday will not be signalized in Atlan-ta today by the big military muster which it was arranged should take place. If the bad weather had not interfered with the plans the parade would have been one of the best ever seen in Atlanta.

Despite the muddy streets, however, two of the colored military companies will parade with a brass band.

Yesterday the committee in charge of the preparations for battation drill today met in Captain Milledge's room and decided to postpone the drill. The inclement weather caused this change in the programme.
There were present Captain Forbes, Captain Milledge, Captain Sneed, Captain Anderson.

Lieutenant Ellis, of the Gate City guards, Captain Hale, of the Kirkwood cadets, and Leutenant Ellis, of the Gate City guards, Captain Hale, of the Kirkwood cadets, and Lieutenant DeGive, of Means's cadets. After deciding to abandon the drill today, it was unanimously agreed to have a grand battalion drill on memorial day, April 26th. Captain Milledge was chosen to act as major on that occasion, and Lieutenant Ellis, of the Guards, as adjutant. The military of other cities will be invited to take part, and every effort will be made to make the occasion one of unusual interest and importance.

"Now," said Captain Milledge, "I want to know what you all think about a new idea. Let's have all the companies in and about Atlanta organize a sort of brotherhood in the interest and for the advancement of all. What do you think of it?"

"Good," said Captain Forbes.

"Excellent," echoed Captain Sneed.

The idea was discussed in all its bearings, and it was favored by all.

A committee, consisting of Captain Sneed, Captain Anderson and Captain Hall was appointed to formulate and report a plan for the organization.

The next meeting will be held in Captain pointed to formulate and report a pian for the organization.

The next meeting will be held in Captain Milledge's office on Tuesday, March 6th, and is confidently expected to result in a permanent fraternal organization.

The idea meets with a great deal of favor among the soldier boys and their friends, and the action taken in the matter will be awaited with considerable interest.

WHO WILL GO.

Nashville Wants Georgia Companies to At tend Her Big Drill.

A letter has been received by Adjutant-General Kell from Secretary P. A. Smith, of the Nashville interstate competitive drill encampment, asking him to forward the addresses of Georgiamilitary officers, that invitations may be sent them to attend the competitive drill to take place at West Side park, Nashville, from May 21st to 26th.

Captain Charles H. Cothran, of the Hill City Cadets, Rome, has resigned. An election for captain has been ordered to take place on the 22th of this month. Second Lieutenant A. J. Cruger, of the Jackson Light Artillery, of Albany, has resigned.

Colonel Hill has received these confederate rosters:

rosters:

WILL GO TO AUSTIN. The Gate City Guard Hold a Rousing

Meeting.

Meeting.

There was a largely attended and earnest meeting of the members of the Gate City Guard in their armory last night. A good deal of routine business was transacted, and four or five new members were elected.

It was resolved that the company should enter the prize drill in Austin, Texas, next May. The announcement of this action produced great enthusiasm. The members declared that they would go into the contest with the determination to win the first prize. The members will begin drilling four times a week. It is expected that the company will be able to muster forty men.

STABBED THREE TIMES.

A Young White Boy Stabs a Negro Yesterday Afternoon.

A dangerous cutting affray occurred yester-day afternoon at the corner of Marietta and day afternoon at the corner of Marietta and Peachtree streets.

The parties engaged were John Anderson, the young son of Patrolman Bob Anderson, and nephew of Recorder Anderson, and a negro boy, about sixteen years old, named Alex. Carter.

Young Anderson is employed at the fruit stand on Peachtree near Marietta, and was be-hind the counter vesterday about 1 o'clock.

hind the counter yesterday about 1 o'clock when the negro Carter passed by, and took some chestnuts from the stand in passing. "Now, you put those chestnuts back," said Anderson.

"Now, you put those chestnuts back," said Anderson.

The negro answered in an impudent manner, and Anderson stepped from behind his stand. The negro met him, and, without any further cerrmony, caught him around the neck and began striking him.

It may have been fun for the darky, but young Anderson was suffering, and, as the negro showed no disposition to let up, Anderson drew from his pocket a knife and began using it. The negro was cut in three places—on the left arm, on the left shoulder, and in the small of the back. He was picked up and carried to the office of Dr. Bob Westmoreland. Here his wounds were examined and dressed, Dr. Pinckney assisting, after which he was carried to his home, 91 Spring street. The wounds are not necessarily serious, though that in the back is one that requires careful nursing. At last accounts he was resting quietly.

Young Anderson was carried to police head-quarters, where a bond of $200 was given, and he was released. The negro will be tried for assault and battery.

you feel?"
"All right," said Mr. Carpenter, "and I am about to leave for New Orleans, where I go in the interest of the great paint house of John W. Masury & Son, of the great paint house of John W. Masury & Son, of New York."

"Are you representing that establishment now?"

"Yes, and have been for some time. My headquar ters are now in N.w York, yet occasionally I visit Atlanta, my old home, and I tell you it does me good to come back here."

"How is business with you in your new field."

"Good enough. Right here in Atlanta hast August I secured an order from Mr. Tripod, our A lanta agent, for 500 dozens of tube paints. Since that time he has been ordering constantly and I have just obtained one other order from him for over 1,000 dozens of our paints. Then, I have the same success everywhere and I tell you, old fellow, my business is good."

cverywhere and I tell you, old fellow, my business is good.

"Yes, I presume you have a superior line of goods to sell from, don't you?"

"Certa my, that is the fact and you are striking the nail square on the head when you are talking that way. John W. Masury & Son manufacture only the very best the paints and varnishes. To tell the truth about it, all the products of their great factory are the very best, and no cheap stuff is sold at all."

"What do they manufacture?"

"They make all kinds of artist's tubular paints. varnishes, ready-made paints for railroad purposes, would be expected to manufacture. Oh, yes, this is a big house and I am selling lots of their paints. You had better jumpoff of this ear if you don't want to go to New Orleans," and the reporter had to jump sure enough, for the train was rolling ahead.

LARD ADULTERATION.

THIS IS WHAT WE EAT.

of W. W. Kimball, of Bosto Before a Senate Committee on the Dawes Bill,

Mr. Owen W. Thomas, representing the pork firms of O. W. Thomas & Co., T. P. White & Co., F. Lieb & Sons, Birch, Norris & Co., Jarvis & Co., F. Lieb & Sons, Birch, Norris & Co., Jarvis & Co., and Hughes, Taggart & Co., manufacturers of pure lard in Louisville, and J. P. Squire & Co., of Boston, represented by W. W. Kimball, appeared on January 25 before the United States senate committee, to which was referred the Dawes bill for prevention of fraud in the sale of lard. The following are extracts from the address of Mr. Kimball in favor of the bill:

tee, to which was referred the Dawes bill for prevention of fraud in the sale of lard. The following are extracts from the address of Mr. Kimball in favor of the bill:

It is a well known fact to packers of hog products and makers of strictly pure hog's lard in this country, that during the last five or possibly eight years, it has been impossible to place their lard product, in its perfection and purity, upon any of our markes and dispose of it at prices which should equal its cost of production, and much less could they obtain a profit thereon. For the purpose of this hearing we will define what is called and known as pure log's lard. Pure hog's lard is that article known as the pure, unsabiliterated fat tof swine, shaukhiered while in a healthy condition. It is also a well known fact to all producers of strictly pure lard, that, in addition to the burdens which the producers of this, one of the most essential interdients of our food, are compelled to bear by reason of their not being able to obtain a fair price tor their producers of this, one of the most essential interdients of our food, are compelled to bear by reason of their not being able to obtain a fair price tor their producers of the producers and a gigantic fraud practiced upon the people of every state in this union in this line of merchandise by the unscrupulous, misleading, deceptive and fraudulent use of marks and brands. Having enumerated some of the burdens which bear heavily upon all producers, dealers in and would-be consumers of pure hog's lard, and indicated some of the cvitis connected wifth the traffic in hog products, we will briefly state the causes of the unfair and burdensome conditions herein referred to. During the period we have before indicated, there has been manufactured at several places in these Union. States, in ever increasing volume, and brands of "Price" Lard, "Choice" Lard, "Family" Lard, "Refined" Lard, etc., thereby using the only words in the English language which can truly indicate and describe the article known a the unrestricted manufacture of these abominable compounds, which are a commercial fraud by reason of their deceptive and misleading marks and brands, while the loss which this traffic forces the producers of strictly pure lard to bear is enormous and robs them of equal rights.

The excessive adulteration of lard by the so-called refluers in this country has been carried to such an extent, and has reduced the manufactured product to so low a grade that unless something is done on this side to raise the standard there will be legislation passed excluding American refined lard from foreign markets, and even closing all foreign ports to our entire lard production.

this side to raise the standard there will be legislation passed excluding American refined lard from foreign markets, and even closing allioreign ports to our entire lard production.

On January 6, the Liverpoel Pro luce Exchange hell a meeting and passed the foilowing resolution: "We, the undersigned, members of the Liverpool Produce Exchange, as merchants and brokers interested in the importation of American hog products, desire to protest against an adulterated compx and being sent to us under the name of lard. We shall welcome any measure passed in Congress that is likely to secure shipments to our market of a pure, unadultetated article which we can with confidence sell to our customers as lard. The known adulteration is seriously affecting our trade, as it surrounds it with suspicion and lack of confidence."

On the same day the Liverpool Provision Trade Associacion passed a similar resolution as follows: "We desire to record our protest against the methods of adulterating lard, said to be emptoyed in America, to the great detriment of the trade here. We shall cordially welcome any measure which may render adulteration impossible, or at all events compel those who adulterate lard to sell it as an adulterated article, and thus place this branch of trade upon its honorable and legitimate footing." Mr. Chairman, the cause of these complaints is understood to be chiefly due to heavy consignments of cotton seed oil refined lard from the West, which have nearly ruined the trade liver can be accomplaint of the place once led all other continent I markets in imports of American lard. A further proof of this unitendly feeling and the bad effects of lard duitteration, is shown in the marked decline of our foreign exports of lard this year as compared with last; which thus far have fallen off thirty millions of pounds, equal to the product of a million hogs, inhibiting through this a direct injury to every corngrowing state in the union, in the reduced value of its hogs by from fifty to seventy-five cents per head.

justice and equal rights, but simply that the manufacturers of adulterated lard shall not be permitted, except under severe penalty, to appropriate the marks and brands used by the producers of strictly pure and honest goods. As to the question of tax upon these compounds, we desire frankly to state that if congress can enact a law providing for the compulsory branding of them just what they are without a tax we shall be content. If the constitution requires a tax in connection with such a provision, we respectfully suggest that it be a minimum tax, coupled with a sure penalty in case of a disobedience of the law. All producers of pure lard will cheerfully enter our home and foreign markets with their product provided our national legislature will make it impossible for the makers of imitations and substitutes for pure lard to place their goods upon the markets and sell them except under truthful and hone-t brands, indicating just what they are, and strictly under their own intrinsic merits.

The committee having this bill under consideration again met on February 8th to hear evidence, Mr. Hill, of Boston, an employe of Squire & Co., produced samples of various compounds in tin polis, which he purchased in open market, and caused to be chemically examined by Professor Sharpless, of Boston, who testified as to the contents of these compounds.

According to his testimony a sample bearing the stamp of Armour & Co.'s "Pure Refined Family Lard" was found to contain about 60 per cent hog's lard with 20 per cent of cottonseed oil and 20 per cent of beef fat. A sample of Fairbanks & Co.'s Chicago "Prime Refined Family Lard" was made of the same ingredients, but contained a greater proportion of beef fat and cotton-seed oil. A sample bearing the stamp of Halstead & Co., "Pure Family Lard" and another from the same firm stamped in Spanish "Pure Lard," registered, etc., con-tained, so far as the test shad been carried, not a particle of hee's lard but were entirely of a particle of hcg's lard, but were entirely of a particle of negs lard, but were entirely of beef fat and cotton-seed oil. A package of "Pure Leaf Lard," put up by Squire & Co., of Boston, was bought in open market by Profes-sor Sharpless, which the latter testified was ensor snarpiess, which the latter testified was en-tirely a hog product, and contained no trace of anything else. He was questioned about the methods of test and the comparative healthful-ness of hog's lard, beef fats and cotton-seed oil. With regard to cotton-seed oil he said its healthfulness was still a mooted question, and a matter not for chemists, but for medical men to decide.
